U. S. AIMS AT JAPAN, OFFICIAL REPORTED TO HAVE DECLARED

"Maneuvers" Are Intended as Warning Against Further Encroachments in Lower California.

OPPOSE NAVAL BASE

This Country Determined to Prevent Any Such Acquisition by the Eastern Empire, Says Statement.

BULLETIN.

SAN FRANCISCO.—That the war department is making preparations to improve the defenses of the Pacific coast was indicated when it became known today that on April 1 three companies of artillery will begin planting mines in San Francisco harbor. Captain Johnson, district artillery engineer, will conduct the work under direct orders from the war department.

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—The Lower California revolutionists were routed today in an engagement with the federal troops at Tecate. The revolutionists lost two men killed and two wounded; the federal forces two wounded.

WASHINGTON.—"Japan rather than Mexico is the objective of the 'maneuvers' of the American army," said an official in Washington today, this being the first time that the oft-repeated statement has received anything like official sanction, according to the United Press.

"The President did not make the 'maneuvers' move inadvertently or hastily," added this man, who is not an active partisan politician and is not personally friendly to or a member of the administration group. "He knew that he would be called on for an explanation by the incoming Congress and he has what he considers ample justification for his act. When the full facts are known even his partisan foes will have to admit the wisdom of his move."

It was the original plan of the President to mobilize 60,000 regular troops on the Mexican border, the story goes. This would have been practically the entire regular army with the exception of the details necessary to guard government property and garrison the Philippines.

The President's decision to call out only 20,000 troops was reached on the afternoon of the day of the mobilization order and immediately was followed by instructions to national guard officers which have resulted in the preparation of plans that will make possible the mobilization of the national guard on the shortest possible notice.

It is pointed out that the move is not a defensive one and was not prompted by any fear of immediate trouble with Japan. On the contrary it is designed as an offensive "maneuver" having for its object the thwarting of certain influences now active in Mexico and which are believed to be looking toward Japanese aggression in lower California.

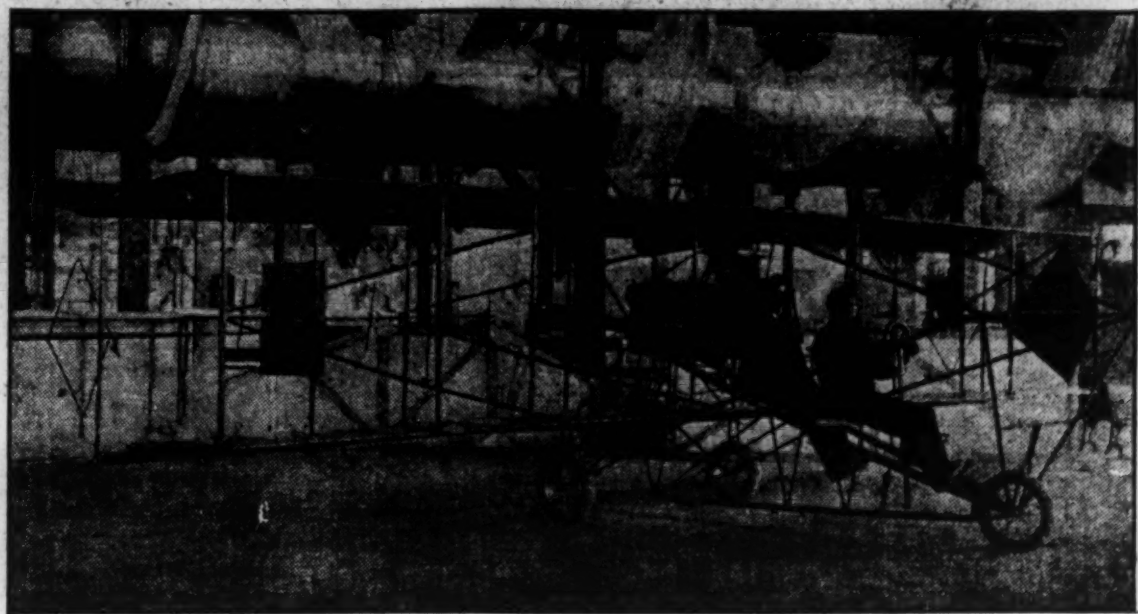

Developments today point clearly to the peninsula of lower California as being the real center of trouble rather than the Mexican border generally or the Diaz administration.

In the light of these developments President Taft's statement to the correspondents who accompanied him south on the night of March 9 takes on added significance. At this time the President, speaking informally and with the understanding that he was not to be quoted directly, pointed out that the reports of the growing possibility of organization of an independent republic in Lower California would through its irresponsibility be a constant source of trouble to this country.

At that time no public attention had been given to the Japanese activities in lower California or to the diplomatic exchanges between Mexico and Japan which have since become public. It is

MR. LODGE COMING HOME TO PRESIDE AT TOWN MEETING

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge is expected to arrive in Boston late tonight or early Saturday morning, and he will go at once to Nahant, where the annual town meeting is to be held tomorrow.

As usual the senator will preside as moderator over the deliberations of his townsmen, and after the meeting he will lunch at the Nahant club with friends. He plans to leave Nahant for Washington at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, reaching Boston in time to catch the 5 o'clock New York train. The townspeople are quite disappointed that he is not to remain longer, as they desired to give him a dinner in celebration of his reelection to the Senate, but this will now probably be given up.

PRODUCE MEN URGE COLD STORAGE VALUE AT FOOD BILL HEARING

The committee on public health of the Legislature today took up the continued hearing on the various bills to regulate the cold storage of food. Francis Batchelder of the fruit and produce exchange said that 3000 people in Boston use cold storage. The big dealers, he said, control less than 1 per cent of the eggs and less than 5 per cent of the butter. His own table is supplied largely with cold storage products, he continued, and on April 1 of last year he had eggs which had been in storage for 11 months and they were better than the "fresh eggs" of that time.

It would be impossible to set a time limit on all foods, said Mr. Batchelder. Cheese improves with age, he declared, and no man could afford to carry eggs or butter for more than a year on account of the shrinkage and the storage charges.

Representative Greenwood of Everett said that if eggs were marked many wouldn't buy them. "We want to give the people the stuff that is all right—no matter if it has been there five years," he said.

James H. Higgins, treasurer of the Newburyport fish cold storage warehouse, said he is not opposed to the spirit of the bill, but it would be impossible to make it effective. The only argument for these bills, he said, has been the newspaper editorials.

Mr. Higgins recommended a careful and proper inspection of fish when it goes into the freezer and when it comes out to make sure that it is in proper condition.

Representative McCarthy of Boston appeared for his bill to compel the marking of cold storage products with the date when put in. He said this bill would result in reducing the high cost of living.

HARVARD AERONAUTS AWAIT GLIDER MEET ENTRIES FROM YALE

A communication from Yale in regard to entry in the first intercollegiate glider meet at Atlantic on May 3-6 is awaited by the Harvard Aeronautical Society. A dozen other colleges and institutions have already entered, including Amherst, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Noble & Greenough, Tufts, University of Pennsylvania, Volkman, Waltham Aeronautical Society, Williams, and Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

The machines will be divided into two classes, mechanical control and body control. Cups will be offered for the best records in duration, distance, speed and accuracy of landing. There will be a special prize for the machine covering the greatest total distance in the four days of the meet.

Harvard graduates in Boston have subscribed for the construction of an artificial glider starting slope about 40 feet high, which will be completed within two weeks. The Harvard Society will send two gliders and the Roe triplane. Several other colleges will enter more than one machine.

Mr. Martin, designer of the Harvard I, has completed his course of instruction at the French aeronautical school at Pau, and is now a licensed aviator.

MR. BALFOUR JOINS IN DEMAND FOR AN ARBITRATION TREATY

LONDON.—Sir Edward Grey's speech in behalf of international peace struck a responsive chord which is vibrating today throughout all Europe.

When A. J. Balfour, the leader of the opposition, said in the House of Commons on Thursday that he saw no difficulty in the way of carrying out the Anglo-American treaty proposed by President Taft, the chamber rang with cheers of approval.

"The late government did its best," said Mr. Balfour, "to carry out an arbitration treaty with the United States. I hope that there is a general feeling in

MR. TAFT PLANNING CONGRESS MESSAGE WHILE HE IS GOLFING

AUGUSTA, Ga.—President Taft will not begin actual work on his message to the new Congress, appealing for ratification of the reciprocity agreement, until his return to Washington Sunday, but it is understood that he is now planning the chief points while at golf.

Mr. Taft's second appeal to the Senate and House to speedily ratify the agreement is expected to aim at lifting the question above party and showing it in the light of national welfare.

He thinks it is a question as big as the North American continent, and that the provisions of the agreement will make for the greater prosperity of every section of the United States and Canada.

Another thing that the President is considering is the selection of a third man to serve on the commission authorized by Congress to investigate the subject of increasing postage rates on the advertising matter in magazines.

Associate Justice Hughes of the United States supreme court and Lawrence Maxwell of Cincinnati are two members selected.

M'CURDY DOES WAR MANEUVERS AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON.—An unannounced exhibition of aeroplane war maneuvers was made here today by J. A. D. McCurdy before the highest officials of the army and a number of naval officers. In his Curtiss biplane, McCurdy made a scouting expedition over the Potomac river, took observations of Ft. Myer, Va., displaying the ease with which he could drop bombs there and in various Virginia hamlets, and after a score of dips and curves to show his command of the machine, alighted within a few feet of his starting place.

Secretary of War Dickinson; Major-General Wood, chief of staff of the army; Brigadier-General Allen, chief of the signal corps, U. S. A.; Major-General Murray, Brigadier-General Weaver, and Capt. W. I. Chambers, aeronautical expert of the navy, witnessed the flight.

McCurdy was in the air about half an hour and at times attained an altitude of 500 feet.

REPAIR HARVARD DORMITORY AFTER DAMAGE BY FIRE

In the Randolph dormitory at Harvard, a wing of which was burned Thursday, the janitor and his assistants are at work today arranging to accommodate those who were burned out.

Studies and libraries throughout the building are being converted into sleeping rooms and couches and window seats are being made to serve as temporary beds while the damaged wing is being repaired.

The refugees are being entertained by their dormitory mates, only one man having to go outside the building to find accommodations.

Several students are appearing on the streets today in clothing which has obviously been borrowed.

It was made known today that the storeroom of the building was directly under the fire, and consequently many men who were not in the burned section will suffer loss through damage to their trunks and other stored property.

Building wreckers have been engaged by the Coolidge heirs, who are the owners, to clean out the building, and clear the way for the carpenters.

The repairing of the building is being rushed and five or six weeks will probably see the students in comfortable quarters again.

In an investigation today the cause of the fire could not be ascertained. The men who were sleeping in the section burned were awakened by the fire itself and are unable to give any explanation.

The hall was constructed with fire walls at frequent intervals, which confined the flames. Professor Coolidge roomed in the opposite side of the fire bulkhead and though he was within six feet of the hottest part of the fire his property was undamaged.

HELD ON MAIL FRAUD CHARGE.

Smith L. Sherman of Fitchburg was held in $2000 for the federal grand jury which convenes next Tuesday by United States Commissioner William H. Hayes today, on the charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud the state and David A. Ellis, public administrator of the estate of Sarah Jane Williams. Bail was furnished by Samuel G. Cushing and J. D. Littlehale, both of Fitchburg.

MR. WEEKS' CANVASS OF HOUSE REVEALS CANNON OPPOSITION

Not More Than Eight Republicans in New England Favor Him for the Minority Leadership.

OUT OF THE RACE

Former Speaker Likely to Decline to Become Candidate for Party Good and Support Mr. Mann.

WASHINGTON.—The outlook for Mr. Cannon's becoming the minority leader in the next Congress is not as good as it was a week ago. Mr. Cannon, after a careful inquiry, having decided, it is said by men who have talked with him, that perhaps it would be unwise for him to urge himself upon the party.

Mr. Cannon, however, would like to have a "vindication" and until recently he saw no good reason why this might not be brought about. Now, however, he is entirely quiescent, and will attempt in no way to influence the choice of the caucus. Should he be of this opinion when the time comes for the Republicans to caucus for the purposes of the extra

CAMBRIDGE CITIZENS OPPOSE PLAN TO TAX HARVARD'S PROPERTY

Representatives of Business Clubs and Civic Associations Appear Against Bills of Julius Meyers.

DR. LOWELL PRESENT

Author Urged That Exemption Is Burden to City, but Others Claimed Institution of Great Benefit.

A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard, and citizens of Cambridge representing business men's clubs and civic associations in that city, appeared before the legislative committee on taxation today in opposition to two bills introduced by Julius Meyers, relating to taxation of college property.

One of these bills provided for the taxation of all property hereafter acquired by Harvard University in the city of Cambridge. Mr. Meyers was the only one who spoke in favor of either bill.

It was said by all those who spoke in opposition to the measures that the sentiment of the people of Cambridge was not in favor of taxation of educational property within the city. These institutions have rendered inestimable benefits to the community, it was said, and the value of their presence is becoming more and more realized.

President Lowell said that the university proposes to pay the regular tax rate on any of the property which it hopes to acquire in the section bounded by Mt. Auburn street, Boylston street, De Wolf street and the Charles river. The university will make this payment, he said, because of an agreement to that effect between former President Eliot and the city of Cambridge. Mr. Meyers had told the committee that the college had intended to take all the land in this section without paying taxes on it.

Edmund A. Whitman said that the Cambridge Club, which numbers among its members some of the heaviest taxpayers of the city, was very desirous to have the Massachusetts Institute of Technology come to Cambridge. As far as he could learn, he said, there was practically no sentiment in the city in favor of taxing the property of educational institutions.

John F. Crocker, vice-president of the Citizens Trade Association, said that the agitation started every year about this time by Mr. Meyers and a few others for the taxation of college property in the city was doing much to injure Cambridge. He said he thought one reason why the trustees of the Institute of Technology are withholding their decision about coming to Cambridge is because of the annual movement for the taxation of college property in Cambridge.

John H. Corcoran said that the high tax rate in Cambridge was not due to the fact that Harvard University is exempt from taxation. The high rate is due to other causes, he said, such as extensive civic improvements and the large share which the city has to pay toward the metropolitan debt.

Henry M. Williams pointed out to the committee that a portion of the land which Mr. Meyers said the college intended to take for university purposes now contains large private dormitories and clubs on which the assessed valuation is placed at more than $2,000,000. The city gets the benefit of the tax on this property and will continue to do so, he said.

Representative George L. Dow told the committee that he hoped the opposition to these bills this year would cause the committee to report that no legislation in this respect was necessary and thereby, perhaps, stop the annual presentation of bills for the taxation of Harvard University. He said that a majority of the citizens of Cambridge are tired of having their attitude toward Harvard placed in a wrong light.

Among the hearings by committees of the Legislature scheduled for Monday are the following:

Committee on cities, room 240, 10:30 a. m.—(H. 1002) for revision of charter of Brockton; same committee, at Lowell city hall, 7:30 a. m. (H. 815) for amending charter of Lowell.

Committee on election laws, room 446,

MR. ROOSEVELT OUT ALREADY FOR ARMY RECRUITS, IT IS SAID

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—Theodore Roosevelt before leaving for Arizona on Thursday made preliminary arrangements here for the organization not only of a regiment but of a whole division of cavalry to fight should the occasion arise.

SOUTH BOSTON HOLDS MEETING AND PARADE FOR EVACUATION DAY

Various organizations comprising about 1000 marchers participated in the South Boston parade today in celebration of the one hundred and thirty-fifth anniversary of the evacuation of Boston by the British under General Howe.

Owing to the mobilization of United States troops on the Mexican border the parade line today lacks the usual complement of soldiers from the harbor forts, but there is a goodly portion of marines.

Following is the program for the day: 6 a. m.—Ringing of bells and salute at navy yard.

12 m.—Ringing of bells.

2 p. m.—Formation of parade in Andrew square, under direction of Dr. William H. Ruddick, chief marshal, P. Joseph O'Leary, chief of staff. ### NEW YORK BANK CASES GO OVER.

NEW YORK.—There will be no indictments in the Carnegie Trust and Northern Bank cases before next week. The grand jury, adjourned today until Monday, when Joseph G. Robin will again be a witness. District Attorney Whitman said today that it was likely the grand jury would return a dozen indictments.

MAYOR OFFERS TO COMPROMISE ON AUTO BILLS

Mayor Fitzgerald was before the committee on roads and bridges at the State House today on his automobile bills. He informed the committee that he wished to withdraw his bill to abolish the law as to automobile fees by the repeal of chapter 325 of the acts of 1910, which places them in the state treasury, to be used by the highway commission for the repair of town and county ways.

He also said that he was willing to get together with the automobilists and the highway commission on his two other bills, House 702 and Senate 247, as to the disposition of fees and fines from automobilists, to try and fix up a bill that should be more fair to Boston and one that they could all agree upon. This disposition of the matter was not objected to by Harold Parker, chairman of the highway commission, or by Attorney Spear of the Massachusetts Automobile Association and Attorney Thibodeau of the Automobile Legal Association.

The mayor argued that about one half of the automobile riding in the state is done in the Boston metropolitan park district and he thought that half of the fees ought to go to the city.

U. S. AIMS AT JAPAN, OFFICIAL REPORTED TO HAVE DECLARED

taken for granted here that the President has had knowledge of these exchanges for some time and that matters reached their climax upon the return to this country of the United States minister to Mexico, Henry Lane Wilson.

It has been effectually established now that there is no hostility between this government and the government of Mexico, at least so far as President Diaz is concerned. It is not believed that the President of Mexico has been guilty of any breach of the good faith which he has always fostered between his government and the United States.

Continuation by Japan of her efforts to obtain a coaling station, a naval base or other concessions in Lower California was what the President had in view, it is said, when he stated that the American troops would cross into Mexico "upon the first necessary cause for action."

It is believed that if the present maneuvers suffice to thwart the plans of the Mexicans who have been negotiating with the Japanese, the maneuvers will end.

If the "maneuvers" do not bring this result the prediction is freely made here that the American army will advance into Mexico ostensibly under the guise of protecting American interests and restoring order and will use its offices to set up a government whereby the peace and prosperity of the United States may not be menaced through possible grants and favors to the Japanese government.

The first indication that an actual invasion of Mexico has become necessary will probably appear in the order for the mobilization of the state militia, preparations for which are known to be under way.

No attempt is made in official circles to disguise the feeling of satisfaction caused by the approval given in England to President Taft's arbitration proposition. The popularity of this proposal with the British public and with the British officials is taken here to indicate that even the existing offensive and defensive alliance now in force between England and Japan would not suffice to prevent British public opinion from forcing that government to ally itself with the United States on any issue in which it was necessary to choose between the United States and Japan.

Contrary to certain charges that have been made, there is little jingo spirit prevalent in Washington today. Instead of expressions of fear of trouble with Japan, the belief is everywhere expressed that by making the first move and making it promptly President Taft has nipped in the bud—or at least is about to do so—what might have grown into a serious menace to the peace of the country.

London Shares View

LONDON.—The Express today supports its recent story that the United States is mobilizing troops near Mexico as a warning to Mexico against too friendly relations with Japan, by printing the following paragraph from the Tokio Times of Feb. 25:

"According to a telegram received yesterday the Mexican government has postponed the departure of its special envoy to Japan until September."

The Express contends that the object of this mission, which has been kept from the public, is one of the things that have caused apprehension in America regarding Japan's eastern Pacific aims.

NEW YORK.—Restoration of peace in Mexico is said to be at hand today, Senator Limantour, the Mexican minister of finance, left here after a week of conferences and it is understood that he has succeeded in effecting a tentative plan by which substantial reforms are expected to be put in force immediately by the Mexican government, and the leading insurgents being satisfied, are to aid in restoring peace. When leaving here he said:

"Mistakes have been made, perhaps some of them serious, but this fact is not peculiar to Mexico. Many reforms have been brought about in recent years. Others of even greater importance are under way and may be made public in the near future."

Simultaneously a despatch from Mexico announced that President Diaz in a conference with a number of citizens of Metzalan assured them that he was adopting certain of Limantour's proposals for reform.

Senator Limantour bears with him a full exposition of the demands of the insurgents, which it is hoped will be acceptable to the Mexican government and made the basis of peace.

"This hope is obviously not without a reasonable degree of foundation. After his conferences with Francisco Madero, Sr., father of the provisional president of Mexico, Limantour communicated freely with the authorities at Mexico City, and on Tuesday evening received a long telegram which he regarded as action to warrant him in immediately setting out for the capital of his country."

The Maderos, father and sons, were asked a number of pointed questions. "You must realize," they said, "that we are in a most delicate condition. We cannot talk freely now, but hope to make an explicit statement soon. Why do you not ask Senator Limantour for your answer? His return is awaited in Mexico with the keenest interest. They want him there to straighten things out."

"The insurgents," said they, "demand radical reforms and a thorough change in the personnel of the administration by having free elections."

No settlement could be completed until there was an opportunity to confer with the insurgent leaders at the front, and there had been no time as yet to consult them. Neither had they any desire to accept overtures with such promptness as would be misconstrued by the government into an evidence of weakness.

All Eyes on Limantour

WASHINGTON.—Mexicans in Washington in sympathy with the revolutionary movement in their country, as well as the supporters of the federal government, display intense interest in the movements of Senator Limantour, the Mexican minister of finance, whose return to Mexico City, it is expected, means not only important changes in the cabinet of President Diaz, but a possible solution of the political disorders of the land.

The importance of Senator Limantour's return to the capital of Mexico, it is said here, lies in the fact that coincident with certain changes in the cabinet of President Diaz, other reforms will be instituted in the local administration of various states calculated to appease the revolutionists.

Quiet at San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—No orders have been issued nor has any information come from the headquarters of Maj. Gen. William H. Carter, commanding the regulars mobilized north of Fort Sam Houston, indicating an early movement of any of the troops.

The regulars who came here expecting all sorts of things are growing because they have heard rumors emanating from official sources to the effect that among the things they may be called upon to do within the next few days will be several long marches, which will be ordered to prepare them for any further duty they may be called upon to perform, such as patrolling the American side of the Rio Grande to prevent filibustering, among other things.

As has been the case ever since the President issued his order for the mobilization of one third the regular army in San Antonio, this city is full of rumors. On every hand is heard talk of vague reports of trouble beyond the Rio Grande.

French Discuss Situation

PARIS.—The situation in Mexico was discussed on Thursday night by the Franco-American committee, under the presidency of Prince Roland Bonaparte, president of the French Geographical Society.

The prince recalled the intervention of Napoleon III. in Mexico, which was used, he said, upon a desire to maintain the equilibrium of America, and expressed the hope that Mexicans themselves would assure the balance of their country in the present crisis, and not succumb to the temptations of the north.

Count Maurice de Perigny, the explorer, who has just returned from Central America, cited the prosperity of the republic under President Diaz and Finance Minister Limantour, and gave it as his opinion that the disorders in the north would not engulf the whole country, but, on the contrary, undoubtedly would be quelled as soon as the United States stopped the passage of contraband across the frontier.

Mexico, he thought, was wholly capable of protecting foreign interests, and even in the event of the passing of Diaz, which might be followed by grave events, the government was determined at all hazards not to permit a justification for intervention by the United States.

Ambassador on Way

LAREDO, Tex.—Henry Lane Wilson, United States ambassador to Mexico, passed through Laredo on Thursday afternoon for Mexico City. Mr. Wilson was traveling incognito. He would not discuss the situation in Mexico.

Boer War Trick Used

PRESIDIO, Tex.—By a trick, patterned after the exploits of General De Witt in South Africa, the insurgent forces besieging Ojinaga gained control of the ford connecting the beleaguered city with Presidio on Wednesday night, and effectively bottled up the federal forces.

Driving before them a herd of 40 stamped horses, four volunteers from the rebel camp of General Sanchez charged the river crossing at 11 o'clock.

Firing their revolvers and using other devices to terrify the animals, they drove the herd straight for the trenches occupied by about 100 federal guards the crossing.

As the frightened riderless animals charged down the river bank the federals met them with a heavy fire and more than half the horses were killed. The others continued the rush and many of the soldiers deserted the rifle pits. By this time 50 insurgents who followed the horses on foot came up.

The rebels advanced to within 200 yards of the federal lines, hastily digging rifle pits and establishing a position commanding the daily source of supply left open to the federals. Three soldiers were killed and one was taken prisoner.

The raiding party was led by Col. Toribio Ortega and A. F. S. McCombs. Forty Quaki Indians joined the insurgents and 100 more are expected.

Troop H, third United States cavalry, is patrolling the river on the American side. Frequently bullets from the federal lines fall on the American bank.

Ambush Reported

MEXICO CITY.—An unconfirmed report of the ambushing of 200 rebels of 50 men of the twenty-seventh battalion at El Rodeo ranch, near Hermosilla, Sonora, was published on Thursday in El Pais.

The federal commander, Lieut. Col. Luis Aguino, and 21 of his men are reported to have been killed and the remainder of the command, including 17 wounded, made prisoners.

A circular appeared here Thursday purporting to be signed by Pascual Orozco, leader of a rebel force, announcing his retirement from the revolutionary movement.

Blanco, Silva, Soto, Garcia and Lara, as well as all Magonists, he called "traitors to Mexico" because they enrolled foreigners in their ranks and for other reasons.

Reyes Sees the King

ROME.—Gen. Bernardo Reyes, who was sent abroad by the Mexican government to study military conditions, was received by King Victor Emmanuel on Thursday.

The King appeared deeply interested in events in Mexico, the conditions in that country being explained to him by General Reyes in practically the same words as his statement made for publication.

Forecasts War With Japan

PARIS.—"Japan must attack the United States before 1915, the date when it is asserted the Panama canal will be finished. This war is inevitable and will bring about a general conflagration," said Admiral G. C. Fournier today.

"Japan cannot afford to wait until the Panama canal is opened and fortified. Her trade with China is already menaced and when the canal is opened the United States will have China for a customer on the first order."

"Everyone knows the friendship which Kaiser Wilhelm has for the United States. If Germany should lend her assistance to the great American republic, England could not refuse her help to Japan, her ally. And there you are. France, Russia and the other nations must inevitably be drawn into the conflagration."

"The United States is not a war-loving nation. Her people are commercial by nature, having for their ideal business conquest such as is necessary to their continued prosperity. But Japan cannot tolerate the commercial rivalry of the United States in China. So she will be virtually compelled to fight."

"Japan, more than any other nation, realizes that the United States is cutting the Panama canal to get the trade of China. She knows that this was the chief reason for the purchase of the Philippines by the United States, a purchase against tradition and against principle."

Repels Annexation Talk

GENOA.—Gen. Jililo Roza, former President of the Argentine Republic, and more recently minister at Paris, who is on a visit here, said that he had no idea that the United States was planning the annexation of Mexico.

Even admitting that the United States intervened in the recent troubles in that country, Mexico, he thought, would remain practically independent, like Cuba.

Await First Gun

LANGTRY, Tex.—People here regard the destination of the United States troops all settled and are merely waiting for the first gun to be fired.

In case of trouble one of the danger points would be the railroad bridge across the Pecos canyon and river near here. The bridge is 321 feet high and 1000 feet long, but so far the only guard placed over it has been maintained by the railroad.

If that bridge should be destroyed it would cut the troops off from communication with southwestern Texas, for it is many miles from the bridge to where the river is approachable or fordable when it is reached.

Customs Officers Upheld

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—Brig. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss has instructed Captain Babcock at Calexico to take no action in the case of the Mexican customs officers who fired on insurgents from the American side of the boundary line, after the rebels had fired upon them from the Mexican side.

Captain Babcock had asked for authority to arrest the Mexican customs officers. General Bliss declared it was a case for civil officers.

REPLY FROM 3108 MILITIA OFFICERS

WASHINGTON.—Three thousand one hundred and eight officers of the organized militia have accepted the war department's invitation to participate in the military operations in the southern border states.

The war department communicated by telegraph with General Carter at San Antonio and General Bliss at San Diego asking for definite information as to how many militia officers can be accommodated by their commands at one time.

As soon as this information is received the department will call upon the adjutants general of the states and territories to select the officers who will constitute the first militia officers to be sent to the "front."

MEXICO TO USE ARMORED ENGINES

MEXICO CITY.—So pleased is the government with the efficiency of the armored cars lately placed in service for the transportation of troops that the war department has placed an order for an armored locomotive.

Steel plates three eighths inch thick will cover the boiler and all exposed working parts of the locomotive. Protected by a shield, a piece of artillery will be placed at the front of the locomotive and so hung that it can be fired in several directions.

An order has been placed for another armored car also. The first car of this type used by Mexico was sent out over the Coahuila and Pacific road.

NORMAN H. WHITE GIVES STATEMENT ON HIS CANDIDACY

Norman H. White, representative from Brookline, went into the State House press gallery today and distributed this statement:

"I am in the running for the Republican nomination for Governor, not to withdraw and throw my support to anyone, but to stay in until the last vote is counted."

"I make this statement because I have heard from a great many of my supporters that there is a story going around that I am in the running to eventually throw my support to some other candidate. This is absolutely untrue and unfounded."

"I have heard it said that I would withdraw eventually in favor of Mr. Frothingham, and I have also heard that I would be found on the side of my Brookline opponent, Joseph Walker," said Mr. White, in answer to a question.

Fire Hazard Bill Up

In the committee on cities, as the mayor of Boston had withdrawn his bills for an annex to city hall and for the segregation of the lumber districts, all that was left to hear was the opposition to the new drafts submitted at the last hearing of Attorney Spring for the city law department to regulate the construction of garages and for controlling and lessening the fire hazard in Boston.

Raymond B. Delano conducted today's hearing, and William H. Sayward of the Master Builders Association and William Duff spoke. Mr. Delano offered several amendments, and the hearing was closed.

Mr. Myers of Cambridge, petitioner for both bills, occupied most of the time of the morning session in telling the committee that in his opinion the exemption of Harvard University property in Cambridge from taxation was placing an unnecessary burden on Cambridge taxpayers.

Mr. Myers said that Cambridge has $104,000,000 taxable property, and nearly $32,000,000 which might be taxed if it were not used for educational purposes.

Many citizens of Cambridge are objecting, Mr. Myers said, because they have heard Harvard is preparing to take over for college purposes a parcel of land between Mt. Auburn street and Charles river which is assessed for $520,000.

To exempt this property from taxation would result in a further increase in the city's tax rate, he said.

Questioned by Representative Wood of Cambridge as to whether he had proof that the college was preparing to take this property, Mr. Myers said that he knew the college already held a mortgage on the parcel.

President Lowell arose and told the committee that this was so.

Mr. Myers said that other educational institutions in the city were constantly taking more taxable property.

Within the past two years, he said, Harvard, Radcliffe and Andover Theological Seminary have taken $150,000 assessable property.

Not a Quorum in House

Governor Foss sent a special message to the House today, transmitting a letter from Franklin MacVeagh, secretary of the treasury, asking that the General Court extend the period within which a plan may be filed in the office of the secretary of the commonwealth for the cession of land for a federal building site at Lowell. The message was referred to the committee on harbors and public lands.

Mr. Pattee of Falmouth moved to reconsider the vote by which the House yesterday rejected the bill permitting spring shooting of coot, whistler and sheldrake, and the House at once felt the effects of the Evacuation day celebration. Mr. White of Brookline raised the point of order that the House was unable to do business because of the lack of a quorum, and a count of the House showed that only 80 members, or 41 less than a quorum, were present. The sergeant-at-arms was directed to round up sufficient members to make a quorum.

Ten minutes was necessary for this. A motion to postpone consideration of the motion to reconsider was defeated, 42 to 69, and the motion to reconsider was then defeated.

In the House these committee reports were received: Election laws—Leave to withdraw on Mayor Fitzgerald's bill providing that the General Court may redistrict the city

COMMISSION DEALER OPPOSES SIX MONTHS EGG STORAGE LIMIT

John C. F. Slayton of Slayton & Boynton, commission merchants, large handlers of eggs, speaking today of the bills limiting to six months the period during which eggs and other food products can be held in cold storage, as discussed at a hearing before the committee on public health of the Legislature Thursday, said that the proposed bills, as far as eggs are concerned, would "prove detrimental if enacted, to the interests of producers and consumers."

"The production of eggs in April, May and June is largely in excess of immediate requirements," said Mr. Slayton. "Production during October, November, December, January and February is very small."

"It becomes, therefore a legitimate transaction to carry eggs from the months of surplus over into the months of deficit. It is probable that some of the months of deficit, usually November and December, do not produce over 10 per cent of the current requirements. Eggs stored in the month of April, according to the requirements of these bills, would have to be taken out during the month of October."

"The amount of eggs accumulated during the season of 1910 reached a maximum on Aug. 1 in Boston at 466,216 cases. On Oct. 1 the total was 338,440 cases, on Oct. 15 it was 355,010 cases, on Nov. 1 it was 315,408 cases. A large proportion of the cases on hand on Oct. 15 would be subject to confiscation under this proposed act."

"It is a matter of common knowledge that eggs laid during the months of April and May have much better keeping qualities than eggs laid in the months of July and August. As a matter of fact, many of the finest hotels in Boston will store eggs during the months of April and May for the purpose of having a better quality of goods during the months of July, August and September than are obtainable at that time."

"On the best eggs put away during the months of April and May the quality will last around until January or February of the following year, whereas eggs laid during the summer probably could not be held in cold storage for a length of time in excess of three or four months."

"The passage of this bill would destroy one of the greatest industries in the country. It would put the price of fresh eggs during the months of deficit entirely beyond the reach of any family of ordinary means."

NO OPPOSITION TO BILL FOR FREE MEALS FOR PUPILS

The committee on education gave a hearing at the State house today on the bill of Representative Morrill of Haverhill authorizing cities and towns to provide meals for school children. At the end of the hearing the chairman asked all those in opposition to stand and not a person stood.

The bill provides that city councils or the selectmen of towns shall provide meals free or at a price not exceeding the cost for children attending public schools and that cities and towns may appropriate money for this purpose.

The bill further provides that this question shall be submitted to the voters of any municipality at election in any year, provided that a petition to that effect signed by not less than 5 per cent of the voters is filed with the city clerk of the city and the town clerk of the town.

Representative Morrill, the petitioner, argued for the bill and the Rev. G. G. Mills of Watertown and Senator Mack of North Adams said they wished to be recorded in favor. The hearing closed.

Public service—Ought not to pass on bills to increase the salaries of judges of probate and insolvency in the counties of Middlesex and Norfolk.

Representative Pattee of Falmouth presented a petition for the incorporation of the Barnstable Water Company.

GENERAL EXPRESS STRIKE IS CALLED IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK.—A general strike of the drivers and helpers of the United States and Wells-Fargo Express companies went into effect today. Employees of the American and National concerns were also ordered out, but refused to leave their wagons. It is said the strike order will affect 22,000 men. The companies announce they will import non-union men.

Mayor Gaynor charges a breach of faith on the part of the strikers, as the Adams men had accepted the proposal that he arbitrate their grievances, in the meantime agreeing to go back to work. An effort will be made today to secure a general arbitration agreement.

It was said at 1 o'clock that 3000 men were out. Police reserves are on duty

JERSEY CITY, N. Y.—Twenty wagons, manned by non-union men under police guard, were moved from the Adams Express Company's stables today to the Pennsylvania ferry. Other express companies here have been unable to move their wagons.

The strike leaders announce that it is expected that the employees of the Westcott express and the New York Transportation Company will be called out.

The Adams expressmen have been out a week, but until today it was not believed by the officials of the other express companies that their men would walk out. The first men to refuse to work today were the drivers of the United States company.

Drivers and helpers of the New York & Boston Company also failed to report for work and it was unable to move any of the matter in its hands. The drivers of the Wells Fargo Express Company went out at 6 o'clock.

PLAN ANOTHER CUT IN CANDIDATES FOR HARVARD BASEBALL

All of the Men Retained Will Probably Stay Until Southern Trip Takes Place.

NEW FIRST BASEMAN

Another cut will be made in the Harvard varsity baseball squad tomorrow and it is expected that the men retained and whose names are given below will stay with the other candidates until the southern trip is taken. The latest cut will eliminate six men, none of whom have ever made the team. The players retained are:

Pitchers—C. Babson '12, S. M. Felton '12, H. E. Oiler '11, G. M. Bird '12, E. C. Hardy '13, R. G. McKay '11, F. S. Ernst '12, H. H. Sexton '11, J. C. P. Carroll '12, Outfield—H. E. Reeves '12, H. R. Howe '12, J. A. Sullivan '13, R. C. Clifford '12, First—C. Hann '11, J. P. Kennedy '12, T. M. Chase '11, M. M. '11, Second—R. S. Potter '12, A. F. Winters '12, Short—J. H. Coon '11, J. P. Carr '11, E. S. Winston '12, A. H. Tomes '11, Gibson '12, Third—C. B. McLaughlin '11, Catchers—J. Kelly '12, R. P. Lewis '13, R. C. Clifford '12, R. B. Wigglesworth '12, W. M. Mith, '11.

The outdoor work has been considerably delayed by present conditions, and it will probably be late next week before the diamond is again in shape for fast play. Coach Sexton and Captain McLaughlin are much disappointed over the condition of the field as they had hoped to be able to hold some fast practice by Monday next.

A newcomer on the squad is Charles Hann, who was with the football team last year. He is trying for first base and although he did not start in with the rest of the players his prospects of making the team seem as good as any at present.

Three players who have been looked forward to as practically sure of places on the nine are R. G. McKay, the pitcher, R. S. Potter, second base, and R. P. Lewis, '13. McKay has shown but little speed and unless there is a decided improvement in his work, he will be of little use to the team.

Potter has been generally picked for his old place at second, where he played such fine baseball last summer and led the squad at batting. A. F. Winters '13, is pushing him hard for the place. He appears to be a hard batter and shows up well at handling grounders and throws. It should be a great race between the two.

Starting as a leading candidate for catcher, Lewis has not yet given indications of making good in that position. He is awkward and hardly up to varsity standard. Should he not improve he will be tried out at first and in some one of the outfield positions.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain.—J. R. Capablanca, the Cuban champion, won the big international chess masters' tournament at the Grand Casino Thursday with a final score of 9 1/2 victories to 4 1/2 defeats. Today is being devoted to the playing off of adjourned games to settle some of the other leading positions.

Thursday's games resulted as follows: Capablanca and Vidmar drew; E. Bernstein beat Maroczy; Janowski beat Leonhardt; Teichmann and Spielmann drew. The games between Marshall and Schlechter, Tarrasch and Duras and Burn and Nimzowitsch were adjourned. Rubinstein had a bye.

Rubinstein and Vidmar are now tied for second place with nine victories and five defeats, and should Marshall, the United States champion, win his adjourned game from Schlechter he will also be tied with the other two for second prize.

CHAMPION FOWNES IS A WINNER IN PINEHURST PLAY

PINEHURST, N. C.—The second and third rounds of match play are scheduled for today in the annual club championship golf tournament here and with the present amateur champion still in, much interest is being taken by the many followers of the contest.

Play in the first match round Thursday was keen with 20 and 21-hole matches between Robert Hunter of Wee Burn and I. S. Roberson of Oak Hill, and H. E. Avery of Detroit Country Club and G. E. Morse of the Rutland Country Club as its features.

Others victors were S. D. Wyatt of Fond du Lac, who played National Amateur Champion W. C. Fownes Jr., J. P. Gardner of Middletown, who opposes Mr. Hunter, C. S. Phillips of Allegheny, who contests with W. E. Truesdell of Brooklyn, and W. L. Milliken of Indianapolis, who plays Mr. Milliken. The summary:

S. D. Wyatt, Fond du Lac, beat W. C. Fownes, Oakmont 3 and 2; W. C. Fownes, Jr., Oakmont, beat C. L. Becker, Woodland, 1 and 1; J. P. Gardner, Middletown, beat C. S. Phillips, Allegheny, 3 and 2; W. E. Truesdell, Brooklyn, beat G. E. Morse, Rutland, 1 and 1; W. L. Milliken, Indianapolis, beat Allan Lard, Chevy Chase, 2 and 1.

A VICTORIOUS CAMBRIDGE EIGHT

(Copyrighted by the D. W. Graphic. Used by permission.)
CHRIST CHURCH 2. CARRYING FLAG UP THE RIVER AFTER BUMPING.

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—Bumping races at Cambridge were started in 1827, barely two years before the Cambridge University Boat Club as it is known today was first organized. The early record of these races show that the winning college (as is the case today) retained the title of "head of the river" for one year. There were, however, two sets of races instituted, i. e., May races and Lent races, thus we have records of two "heads of the river" in one year. In 1860 this method of recording the winners was abolished and since the winner of the May races alone is entitled to the name of "head of the river."

The conditions of the Lent races are briefly as follows: One or more "eights" from each college compete, but no eight can contain any man who has rowed in the previous May races. A "Lent" college boat may often be only the third or fourth boat of the college in point of rank, owing to the fact that the college may have had two or three representative eights in the previous May races. It will thus be seen that these Lent races give a good opportunity for the trial of freshmen and others who may be new to the art of rowing. It is in this term that rowing is often not very agreeable on account of the weather, and consequently the work is of more business-like character than in the warmer months of the summer term and though the winning crew gains no title such as head of the river, it is impossible to overestimate the importance of these races as a means of discovering talent.

The four days devoted to these races this month provided plenty of interest and excitement. The 48 entries were divided into three divisions of 16 each, many of the colleges being represented by more than one boat. In the four days there were 71 "bumps," which is probably a record number for the Lent races. Jesus College, last year's winner, retained the headship without much difficulty. Next to them came Lady Margaret and First Trinity. An interesting point in connection with the latter two boats was that on each day the leader of the two was bumped by the second; thus the crews reversed their positions four times. First Trinity claimed their victories late in the race, while Lady Margaret won early, the latter thus proving their superior speed over the first part of the course. Of the other crews the most notable performances were five bumps by Lady Margaret (second crew) and Pembroke (second crew). The winning crew (Jesus) were stroked by J. H. Jerwood. Sliding seats are not allowed in these races, fixed seats being always used.

REGULARS WIN; SECONDS LOSE IN CALIFORNIA

Boston American Senior Nine Defeats Vernons at Los Angeles, but Oakland Wins From Seconds.

The regular team of the Boston American league was more fortunate in Thursday's game than was the second team, according to despatches received here today from Los Angeles and Oakland. At the former place the regulars defeated the Vernon team of the Coast league 3 to 1, but at Oakland the local nine won from the second team by a 4 to 2 score.

At Los Angeles, Boston's three runs were the result of hard, clean hitting by Gardner, Hooper, Lewis, Wagner and Bradley. This was the opening game of the series at Los Angeles and a fair sized crowd watched the contest. The score by innings:

Innings.....1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 R H E

Batteries, Wood, F. Schaefer and Madden; Willett, Carson and Brown; Hogan, Umphrey, Finney and McGreevey.
At Oakland the game was well played and was fairly even until McAlle relieved Moser, when the Oakland team got a couple of two base hits and a home run over the fence. The home run was made by Pyl, and the two base hits by Helling and Maggart. For the Boston team the best hitting was by Perry, who drove out a three base hit and Thoney who got one for two bases. The score by innings was as follows:

LAWRENCE HIGH NAMES SCHEDULE

LAWRENCE, Mass.—The Lawrence high school baseball management has issued a schedule of 14 games for the season of 1911. The management still has two open dates, May 24 and 27, which it is desirous of filling with some strong nines, Boston schools preferred. The dates already arranged are as follows:

April 19, Manchester at Manchester; 22, Melrose at Lawrence; 26, Harvard second at Cambridge; 29, Melrose at Lawrence; May 20, Malden at Lawrence; 13, Newburyport at Newburyport; 18, Rindge Manual Training at Lawrence; 20, Manchester at Lawrence; 24, 27, open; 31, Beverly at Lawrence.
June 3, Newburyport at Lawrence; 7, Malden at Malden; 10, Gloucester at Gloucester; 14, Beverly at Beverly; 17, Melrose at Melrose.

MALDEN LOSES CAPTAIN.

MALDEN—Coach C. F. Cuddy of the Malden high school team will have to appoint a captain for the team, Oliver Westcott, the captain elected by the team members, having dropped below the requirements in his studies to remain on the team. It is probable that Richard Smith, second baseman of last year's squad, will be the appointee.

BOSTON NATIONAL REGULARS DEFEAT THE SECOND TEAM

Fast Game at Augusta in Which Tenney's Senior Nine Comes Out Ahead by 7 to 3 Score.

AUGUSTA, Ga.—The Boston National regulars defeated the second team in a fast seven-inning game here Thursday afternoon by a score of 7 to 3. During the contest there were six double plays made.

Ralph Good, the Colby College pitcher, occupied the box for the regulars for the first four innings, and allowed only one hit in that time. McTigue started to pitch for the second team, but the regulars bunched six runs in the third inning, and in the fourth he was relieved by Pfeffer.

A three-base hit by Butler of the second team was one of the features of the game, as was also the work of Herzog, Sweeney and Good, and the catching of Graham. The Augusta team has arranged to play the Philadelphia American second team March 29, 30 and 31, but this will interfere in no way with the regular practice of the Tenney men. The score of Thursday's game by innings:

Innings.....1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 R H E
Regulars.....0 0 0 0 1 0 2—7 9 1
Seconds.....0 0 0 0 1 2—3 8 1

Batteries, Good, Flaherty and Graham; Pfeffer, McTigue and Harden. Umpire, Al Mattern.

HARVARD SQUASH TEAM INCREASES FIRST PLACE LEAD

NEW YORK—Harvard Club squash players made a clean sweep of the five matches decided on the courts of the Princeton Club Thursday, while the team of the Heights Casino of Brooklyn won five out of seven matches in competition with the Columbia University Club team on the Brooklyn courts. Both series were in the interclub championship tournament in which Harvard is an easy leader.

Harvard at Princeton Club—F. H. Davis, Harvard, defeated H. H. Bird, Princeton, 12-15, 15-9; L. du P. Irving, Harvard, defeated A. W. Kelley, Princeton, 15-7, 15-12; J. W. Burden, Harvard, defeated Harold Tobey, Princeton, 15-13, 15-13; H. H. Satterlee, Harvard, defeated Howard P. Homans, Princeton, 15-3, 15-4; George O. Winston, Harvard, defeated Harold Imrie, Princeton, 15-3, 15-7.
Columbia at Heights Casino—Lytle E. Mahan, Columbia, defeated George Abbott, Casino, 15-6; Charles M. Bull, Jr., Casino, defeated Frank Kilde, Columbia, 15-16, 15-13; R. G. Cooper, Columbia, defeated H. H. Boyesen, Columbia, 15-8, 15-15; J. O. Low, Casino, defeated H. D. Bullock, Columbia, 15-8, 15-12; Frederick C. Keeler, Columbia, defeated Henry C. Martin, Casino, defeated Harold Kellogg, Columbia, 15-8, 10-15, 15-12; Edward A. Freshman, Casino, defeated R. E. Wigham, Columbia, 15-10, 15-12.

STEINFELDT COMES TO TERMS.
NEW ORLEANS—Harry Steinfeldt and the Chicago National management have agreed on the terms to govern in the coming pennant race. Today will probably find the veteran third baseman taking his turn with the regulars in fielding and hitting practice on Pelican field.

ENGLISH HIGH HAS FEW VETERANS FOR ITS BASEBALL NINE

Scholarship Conditions Will Prevent All of Them From Competing Until Late in the Season.

STRONG SCHEDULE

Prospects for another championship baseball team at English high this year are not very bright just now. There is not even a substitute of last year's nine who will be available before May 1. The candidates for the team have been having daily workouts in the gymnasium and drill hall of the school for the past two weeks, while the battery candidates have been practicing for the past month. James Crowley, who coached the High School of Commerce last spring will have charge of the English squad this season, and will have a hard task to develop a formidable team. It is expected that about 50 men will report to him when the team starts the outdoor work. Capt. James Trayers, who is below the scholarship requirements at present, is assisting Coach Crowley, as are Carl Whitley and Wallace McNaught, outfielders on last year's team, who are ineligible to play this year, because of the graduate rule.

The team is not connected with any league organization this year, so will not be in line for any championship, but that should not detract from the enthusiasm which should be shown by the candidates.

Among the more promising men, who have shown up well to date are Fred Brennan, a freshman who possesses a speedy underhand ball, which is bound to prove a stumbling block to opponents. He has pitched for some of the local teams around Dorchester, where he resides, and with that experience should be able to shoulder part of the pitcher's burden until Trayers returns. Lester Jones, from Roxbury Latin school, pitched many good games for the nine of that school last year, and his three months' rule will be up by the middle of next month. Alger, McDonald and Edwin McMullen are other candidates for the box.

For catcher, Devine, the ex-Mechanic Arts, and Callahan, are the most likely. Both men have played on local teams and have the experience. Jones, substitute catcher on Melrose high last season, will be eligible for the team by next month.

O'Day is the leading candidate for the first baseman's job. Corbett and Thomas are also out for that position. Second and third should be looked after well by Norton, a brother of last year's Dartmouth captain, and Murphy, who played third base on the Highland Military Academy team of Worcester last year. Either one will be shifted to second base, more probably Murphy. Both boys are excellent fielders and good batsmen, and should hold their own against any other aspirants for those positions.

Shortstop would have undoubtedly been won by Colombo, but he was recently appointed football manager of next fall's team and will give his time to that work. Herman, who was out last year gained much experience, and may fill in there nicely this year. Shuttleworth is a good man, as are Harold Pierce, captain of last fall's eleven, Beauvais, Rock, Ignacio and Lynch.

A fast and hard hitting outfield should be chosen from Tentler, a member of last year's second team; Joseph Dolan, the quarterback on the eleven; Kinsports, Woodworth and Fiske.

Albert N. Steadfast '11, has been appointed manager and Frederick West '12, assistant. They have arranged a good schedule which includes strong opponents for the holiday games, getting Dorchester for the morning of Patriots day and for Dorchester day and the High School of Commerce for Bunker Hill day. The schedule in full is as follows:

April 1, Tech 1914 at Tech field; 5, Medford high at Medford; 8, Wakefield high at Wakefield; 12, Groton school at Groton; 15, Woburn high at Woburn; 19, morning, Dorchester high at Dunbar avenue grounds; 22, Newton high at Newton; 26, open; 29, Rock Ridge Hall school at Wellesley Hills. May 3, St. Marks at Southfield; 6, Winthrop high at Winthrop; 10, St. John's Prep. at Danvers; 13, Haverhill high at Haverhill; 15, Durfee high at Fall River; 20, Everett high at Everett; 25, Salem high at Salem; 31, Waltham high at Waltham. June 3, Dorchester high at Dunbar avenue grounds; 8, Rindge Manual Training at Locust street grounds; 10, Bridgewater Normal at Bridgewater; 14, Southerville high at Broadway field; 17, High School of Commerce at National League grounds.

TUFTS DROPS BASKETBALL

MEDFORD, Mass.—Basketball was definitely dropped as a major sport at Tufts Thursday night by the unanimous vote of the athletic advisory board. The action of the board is opposed to the undergraduate sentiment as expressed at a mass meeting held earlier in the afternoon in Goddard chapel. At this meeting a resolution against the suspension of basketball passed, with only three dissenting votes.

CINCINNATI BEATS ST. LOUIS

ABOUT THIRTY MEN OUT FOR PRINCETON 1911 VARSITY CREW

J. D. Spaeth Is in Charge of All Candidates and Is Working Hard to Build Up Fast Eight.

FRESHMEN ALSO OUT

PRINCETON, N. J.—Outdoor crew practice at Princeton is now in full swing under the direction of Dr. J. D. Spaeth. Dr. Spaeth has been appointed coach and director of all the crews here, a post for which he is well fitted and which he has filled in all but name for almost two years. He was largely responsible for the success of the interclass regattas during his time and has stimulated interest greatly in this branch of sport.

About 30 candidates have been practicing daily at the rowing machines in the gymnasium and are in good condition for work in the shells. Many of the men have taken part in several of the regattas here and all of the candidates have had some experience in a shell. So in spite of the difficulties arising from trying to start a varsity crew for the first time the Tigers expect to have a fairly strong eight and to make a good showing in the triangular meet which they will hold this spring with Yale and Cornell, this being the only race which they are permitted by the faculty to enter. In getting this permission they have opened up a new branch of sport for Princeton so they must make good and are putting forth every effort to make the first varsity crew since 1884 a success.

As no regular crew has been picked as yet it is hard to say who will get places. Capt. R. T. Roche '11 has had a good deal of experience and is likely to row stroke. H. R. Gray '11 is another man who has been on his class crew here for two years and should get a place. F. R. Cross '12 and W. F. Judd '12 are doing well in practice on the rowing machine and are likely to make the crew. Other good men are P. W. Cookingham '11, R. H. Smith, Jr., '11, C. D. Winant '11, R. B. Higgins '12 and W. S. Matthews '12. P. A. Ransome '11 and E. S. Dillon '11 will put in a good bid for places and are the kind of men Coach Spaeth is trying to get out and develop. They are big and heavy, and have the endurance necessary for crew men.

Dr. Spaeth intends to have the candidates row in three different boats, and will put them over a six-mile course every day. He believes in long daily rows at a moderate stroke as the best way of getting the men in condition, and although handicapped by their lack of experience will do all he can toward teaching them the finer points of the sport.

The boat house has been fixed up for the use of the crews and lockers provided. The coaching launch is being made ready for use so the hard work will begin at once and the selection of the varsity crew made as soon as possible. R. A. Lewis '11 and J. White '12 are the most likely men for the position of coxswain, but there are several men trying for it and it is hard to say who will win out.

A freshman eight will be started at the same time and will be entered against some other college on the same day the varsity have their race.

It is at Cornell, it is at Cornell, it is at Cornell, it is at Cornell.

RATIONAL GOLF

By JASON ROGERS

All of us who write about golf know well that no subject must be handled so delicately as that of criticizing the merits and demerits of golf links, says Cecil Barcroft in the World of Golf. Bodies such the royal and ancient rules committees, and the delegates of the Associated Clubs can be assailed vigorously, no whit to their hurt, as their position necessitates many a rude shock. It is another matter when a course is dissected; if its weaknesses are exposed ruthlessly much offense is given to men who, by their knowledge great or small, have honestly tried to make the most out of the material at hand. Much offense also is given to the ordinary member who prides himself in his course and naturally does not care to see it reviled in print. There is no subject on which the average golfer is more touchy. If his course is of any merit at all he vastly exaggerates the merits, and is angry if any one suggests that another is so much better.

So it behooves us to deal with this subject most tactfully.

Mr. Darwin's book on British golf links is, to my mind, as nearly ideal criticism as can be hoped for, in that he presents to us the most interesting features of such a course, generous to the best that is there, hints at the weaknesses in a kindly spirit, and avoids comparisons. Having achieved a very difficult literary task—that of describing some 60 courses in a most interesting fashion—he has proved that he possesses the faculty most important of all, the ability to make the best of each course.

Most critics, it must be admitted with regret, view courses from a narrow standpoint. Having determined for themselves what constitutes a championship course, they will see no good in links which do not conform to their ideal. Because nature has denied plateau greens, and a full view of each shot, many links are deemed anathema by golfers whose skill and experience should conduce to broader criticism.

That St. Andrews is the finest test of first-class golf I do not for a moment deny, but not many of us have blinded our eyes to its weaknesses and to the merits of other links of a very different nature, links which supply that which St. Andrews lacks.

There are critics and critics; and some criticisms are really amusing. It was once said in the glowing notes of a daily journal that the fifth hole at Dollymound was so bad as to preclude Dollymound from ever being admitted to the rota. For the sake of those who do not know the hole, it may be described thus: 300 yards in length, a fairway of 30 yards width, a plateau green, the lower part 20 yards long by 8 yards wide, then a gentle climb, and the plateau about 10 yards long by 8 yards wide. Plenty of disaster on each side. Being largely responsible for this hole, I inquired of the critic what he took exception to, and found that he did not consider the top portion of the green sufficiently large to pitch on and to stay there, nor did I. It never occurred to him that the hole should be approached with a pitch and run shot.

Nominated as Next Regent of Massachusetts Branch Daughters of Revolution

America that the time has come when these two great countries may at last be bound by treaty to refer all questions which could possibly produce anything so horrible as a war between them to some arbitration tribunal.

"The secretary for foreign affairs will find no heartier friends of such a policy than those in the Unionist party."

Mr. Balfour's speech, which was quite unexpected, has given a new impetus to the arbitration movement and in the opinion of the liberal morning papers brings the question of an Anglo-American treaty within the region of practical politics.

Leading ministers of all denominations are warmly commending Sir Edward Grey's project, and are already discussing the organization of a large popular movement in its support, to be held either in Albert hall or Hyde park. They are also trying to arrange for a simultaneous movement in America.

The Daily Telegraph, in an editorial, says that the league of peace thus established would necessarily include the countless populations of the whole British empire. Political friendship, it continues, between these great English-speaking nations might be the most glorious association of free nations the world has ever known.

In common with other Unionist morning papers however the Telegraph attaches equal importance to Mr. Balfour's argument in the same speech that the idea of universal arbitration is still visionary, and that an Anglo-American treaty would in no way change Great Britain's relations with Europe, and therefore would not justify any reduction of the British naval strength.

The notice of the United States and Great Britain doing police duty would be obnoxious, according to the Unionist organs. The Telegraph says that the friendship between Great Britain and the United States must be no menace to other countries.

The Standard similarly asks whether when the treaty was concluded, in event of the United States, becoming involved in hostilities with Japan, it could be supposed for a moment that Great Britain would go to the aid of the United States.

In the House of Commons John Dillon, member for East Mayo, said he was extremely skeptical of the immediate effect of such a treaty on armaments, even if it were possible to negotiate it.

An effort was made in the House of Commons to get the views of the Japanese government on the proposal of an American-British general arbitration arrangement, but Sir Edward Grey declined to reveal them.

The foreign secretary admitted that the government at Tokio had been made aware of the British government's views on the subject, but he refused to lay Japan's answer on the table of the House on the ground that to do so would be premature.

It may be authoritatively stated that the Canadian government looks with favor on the improved prospect for an arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain.

The highest officials here believe such a measure would promote the peace of the world.

If a treaty is negotiated it will undoubtedly be submitted to the Dominion Parliament for approval or the approval of the Canadian government obtained for its principle.

Canadian diplomatic autonomy in treaty making is a fixed feature of British foreign policy now.

FARM INVESTIGATION IN NEW HAMPSHIRE SHOWS FAIR RETURNS

WASHINGTON—Based upon investigations made by men sent by the department of agriculture into southern New Hampshire, the statement is made that farming and farm lands in New England are not so much neglected as generally believed.

It was found by the investigators that the average farmer in that section has three fourths of his capital in real estate and one fourth in equipment, and that his farm yields him 5 per cent interest on his investment.

"The plan of work," said a department official Thursday, "was to visit each farmer within the area and obtain from him and from observation the relative condition of the farms in the region, the prevailing types of farming, and the profitability of these types for that section; also the distribution of capital, income and expenses."

"Nature has been remarkably quick to start reforestation. In traveling through the New England states one cannot fail to note the large area of woodland as compared with the improved farm land, and the census figures of 1899 show that only 29 per cent of New Hampshire is improved land, which means that 71 per cent is practically all in forest."

"In the whole region surveyed, and the same holds true throughout the state, the acreage of tillable land is very small, and the tillable land on each farm is usually made up of small, irregular fields, making extensive cultivation of large areas impossible."

"Dairying and general farming are not so profitable in this region as either fruit or poultry, as the farms are too small to yield satisfactory profits under the systems. Fruit growing and poultry farming in combination would seem to be a very satisfactory solution to many of the smaller hill farmers."

NEW ENGLAND'S FIRST MEETING OF BOY SCOUTS

The first meeting of the recently organized Greater Boston council of the Boy Scouts of America was held Thursday afternoon at the offices of Lee, Higginson & Co., on State street. Maj. Henry L. Higginson presided. The charter was outlined by Frank S. Mason, chairman of the sub-committee on by-laws and organization.

Officers elected were: President, Maj. Henry L. Higginson; vice-presidents, David D. Scannell, Frank L. Locke, Louis A. Crossett, David A. Ellis; secretary, Frank S. Mason; treasurer, Charles C. Jackson; executive committee, Joseph Lee, James J. Phelan, Arthur Astor Carey, Carl Dreyfus, Mitchell Freeman, Harold Peabody.

The executive committee voted to engage Frederick N. Cooke, Jr., as executive secretary in charge of the Boston office and to apply to the national headquarters for Mr. Cooke's enrollment as scout commissioner for the metropolitan district of Boston.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Calling for an expenditure of $1,963,249, the annual state appropriation bill was reported by the House today by the finance committee.

The appropriation bill last year was $1,898,479 and in 1909, $1,800,138. The annual estimates, introduced some weeks ago, called for an appropriation of $2,017,729, but the committee cut that amount about $50,000.

AMHERST MEN PLAN TRIP INTO PATAGONIA ON BIOLOGICAL WORK

AMHERST, Mass.—Waldo Shumway '11 and Philip L. Turner '12, who have been selected to accompany Professor Loomis on a seven months biological expedition to Patagonia this summer, are arranging to leave on July 1 for Buenos Ayres.

From that city they will journey by train to Porto Descado, where the exploration trips will begin.

The district to be visited is a new one for biological investigations, and it is expected that the party will bring back numerous valuable accessions to the college laboratory and museum.

A valuable result looked for from the trip will be the large number of duplicate specimens collected which can be exchanged with laboratories of European universities for specimens not owned by Amherst.

Professor Loomis has obtained many such specimens on his previous exploring trips to Nebraska, Wyoming and the Dakotas.

William Stein of St. Joe, Wyoming, has been engaged to accompany the party as cook. He was with the American Museum of Natural History expeditions for four years.

RHODE ISLAND STATE COLLEGE. KINGSTON, R. Neal as alternate. The judges were Profs. John Barlow and F. K. Sechrist.

At the annual meeting of the college basketball team, "R. I." letters were awarded to Messrs. Briden, Sullivan, Neal, Doll, Tully and Warner. Mr. Sullivan was unanimously elected captain of the team for the next season.

STUDENTS OF AMOY, CHINA, WIN ORATORY HONORS AT MICHIGAN

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—A peculiar situation has developed in the oratorical contests held in the law department of the University of Michigan, as for the first time in the history of the department the first honors have gone to foreigners.

Albino Z. Sycip of Amoy, China, speaking on "The Conquest of Ideas," won first place in the contests of the junior class and Tiam Hock Franking, also from Amoy, China, who took for his subject "Education as the Basis of Brotherhood," was awarded first honors in the fresh law competition.

The board of regents at the last meeting acknowledged the receipt of several gifts. William W. Cook of New York gave $10,000 towards the erection of the new women's residential halls.

The announcement was made that through the will of Emma J. Cole of Grand Rapids, Mich., there was now available $7000 for a botanical fellowship for graduate work.

A gift from the Missouri botanical gardens of 130 different varieties of plants was accepted, also the renewal of the $350 scholarship to the school of pharmacy offered by the Frederick Stearns Company of Detroit.

At the request of the law department the opening day of the summer session has been changed from July 3 to June 26. The summer school of law is attended by lawyers from all over the country and in former years they have been forced to leave Ann Arbor before the close of the session or else miss the September opening of court.

A committee also was appointed to investigate the problems of graduate work in the university and to provide for a scheme of reorganization, if such action seemed wise.

The law department kept up its annual Washington's birthday celebration. This is one of the oldest customs of the university, as it was inaugurated in 1890. From that time to the present some of the most famous men of law in the country have delivered addresses.

It was on one such occasion that Grover Cleveland delivered his best known speech on "Sentiment in Our National Life" and for the first time announced his second candidacy for President of the United States.

President Emeritus Angell was the speaker this year, taking for his topic "The Influence of a Lawyer Outside of His Profession."

The law library is in receipt of 1500 valuable law books, the gift of the heirs of Nathan B. Hyde of Chicago. The volumes contain reports of text books and session and territorial laws.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

"SHAKESPEARE" HOUSES.

One of the more marked departures from house building is noted in later years in the popularity attained by dwellings composed of timber and stucco, and which are popularly known as "Shakespeare" houses, says the Pittsburg Leader.

Half-timber houses, although they are English in design in the first instance, have always occupied an important place in the plans of American architects. They are not altogether English, although there is such an impression to that effect that they are even called "Shakespeare" houses. Modern half-timber construction is as it exists a mere decorative device and is no longer an actual method of building. Formerly heavy oak beams were put up and the spaces between them were filled in with stone and mortar and over this was enough plaster to conceal this mixture, while the wooden framework of the building was exposed to view. Half-timber construction of the present day is no more than a frame house to which the aspect of a genuine Elizabethan building is applied by means of putting thin strips of wood at certain points between the surfaces of plaster. Although this is the merest pretext at half-timber construction, there is every effort of beauty that is supposed to reside in this application of an English design to American ideals.

These houses are, in the minds of many good judges, most admirable when they conform most strictly to the ideals of the days in which they were first put up. Yet many architects use this scheme very freely, adorning the half timber gables with other styles which could only in the wildest riot of art nouveau ideal be applied to such a fixed and definite style as these English houses possess. The gables, the overhanging cornices of the period, the part that the chimneys should play in the outline of the houses, which are most artistic and restful when they are simple and not too frequently broken, are a real part of the style, however.

Architects excuse the use of stone, brick and other materials as well as other motives in the construction of these half-timber houses on the ground that they grow monotonous when the house is of more than certain moderate dimensions. There is, of course, the zebralike look to a long house built in this way, but now that color enters so much into the designing of country houses there is no reason why the contrast between the shades should be glaring. It is in just such particulars as this that architects who are constantly repeating their abhorrence of absolute copies of earlier works have an opportunity to introduce effective and tasteful improvements without departing altogether from a certain adherence to the principles of the original.

But even the monotony of alternating plaster and wood along the facade of a house is better than such a variety of motives as brick or stone make in a half timber house. Proper tones in the colors will prevent any monotony. Then it is true that the half-timber construction as it exists in the English towns is better suited to a moderate sized house than to a suburban palace.

FASHIONS AND THE HOUSEHOLD

TASTEFUL GOWN FOR MORNING NEW YORK GIRL'S SMART DRESS

Made in semi-princess style.

Wearing clothes distinctive and unusual.

SOUR CREAM

Do not throw away cream that has turned slightly sour, but add a teaspoonful of sugar, whip and serve with stewed fruit, says the Ottawa Citizen. It will be found equal to sweet cream for this purpose, as even the freshest cream turns when brought in contact with cooked fruits.

THE morning gown that is made in semi-princess style is a becoming and comfortable one, satisfactory from every point of view. This one also has the advantage of being very easy to make, for the sleeves are cut in one with the waist and there are only the under-arm and back seams to be sewed up, while it is a simple matter.

In the illustration, the neck is cut square and the sleeves are gathered into bands, but the neck can be made high and finished with a rolled-over collar, if liked, and the sleeves can be left free at their lower edges, although the dress illustrated is both smart and practical. The skirt is a simple four gored one and can be laid in a box-pleat at the back or gathered. The closing of the dress is made at the left of the front.

This one is made of washable material with trimming of beading threaded with ribbon, but all the fabrics that are used for morning dresses are appropriate.

The trimming can be bands of contrasting material or ready-made banding, or the material itself piped with color. Washable materials are always satisfactory for morning wear and we are growing more and more accustomed to the idea of wearing cotton within doors at all seasons, but such a dress as this one can be made from any simple wool material, such as cashmere, challis and the like, with perfect propriety.

For a woman of medium size will be required seven yards of material 27 inches wide, 5 1/4 yards 36 or 44 yards 44 with 2 1/4 yards of beading to trim as illustrated.

The pattern, No. 6914, sizes 34 to 42 inches bust, can be had at any May Manton agency or will be sent by mail. Address 132 East Twenty-third street, New York, or Masonic Temple, Chicago.

QUESTION OF EXTRAVAGANCE

So-called economies that are not economies at all.

FOOD for thought is provided in an article in Good Housekeeping by Lucy M. Salmon. Under the heading "What is Extravagance?" she says:

It is difficult to separate from the question of economy its counterpart extravagance. The question of mortgaging the house to buy an automobile, of the hundred-dollar tailored suit that comes out of the $20-a-month house, of the $3 seats at the opera and the five cent piece reserved for the Sunday collection plate; of the orchid favors at the company dinner and the skim milk provided for the home table; of the silk covered down comfortable found in the guest room and the thin blankets that must be supplemented by her dress skirt furnished for the maid's room—all these are part of a large class of economies that carry with them corresponding extravagances.

Into all of these at least two other principles enter. The conditions indicated illustrate a crude, undeveloped, aesthetic sense on the part of many who have the ordering of a household, a failure to appreciate that the underlying principle of all aesthetics is harmony—harmony of color, of form, of action, of means, of ends. To a certain extent this appreciation of harmony and fitness does prevail; the young man acquires with his first evening suit the knowledge that he is not to don it before the clock strikes six, and the young woman understands that she is not to wear her evening dress on a shopping expedition. But these are rather ways of acquiescing in the conventions of society than expressions of an innate appreciation of the eternal fitness of things. The unlovely economies that are practised in order that equally unlovely extravagances may be indulged in are in reality not economies at all, but only the outward expression of a defective sense of proportion and harmony.

But not only do the conditions that have been pointed out indicate misfits in expenditures that show low aesthetic standards; they also show undeveloped ethical standards. The moral questions involved in economizing in order to keep up appearances are questions that vitally concern the very marrow of our social organization; they are questions that must be answered one way or the other by every one who spends money, but they can be rightly answered in only one way. Deceit practised in the name of economy is but a too common application of the principle that the end justifies the means. Many other expenditures carry with them questions that concern not so much economy and extravagance, as questions concerning the related subject of so-called civilities. Shall we spend our morning baking cake for the church supper, our afternoon setting tables for it, and our evening washing dishes after it is over that the non-church goer may purchase for 25 cents a supper that has cost 50 cents? Shall we cut out garments for the poor and make them by hand at the sewing society, or pay a seamstress for doing it or find employment for the poor and thus enable them to take the responsibility of their own sewing?

CHANGES IN COIFFURE MODES

Farewell to braids and coils and curls.

THE coming coiffure is to be brushed close and follow the shape of the head. The hair may be parted in the middle, or on the side, but it must not be fluffed up around the face. The braids and coils have gone the way of the pompadour and even the puffs and curls must be laid aside. Whether the hair is parted in the middle or on the side it is combed down over the ears.

But the new coiffure is not so simple as its advocates would have us believe, for as the curls and transformations vanish elaborate head dresses of jeweled bands, ribbons, and Juliet caps come to take their place. "Only in the morning does madame comb her hair" down over her ears and fashion it simply in braids or coils at the nape of the neck. For evening wear the coiffure, simple enough in itself, is made elaborate by the inevitable head dress.

Sometimes the hair is arranged in a vaporous and rather voluminous chignon, as though it were the crown of a bonnet, and the face is framed in a band of old gold lace.

For supreme elegance of coiffure the "beguine" of the renaissance have been resuscitated, made of cloth of gold embroidered richly with gold flowers, a little tarnished perhaps, and sometimes mixed with pearls or colored beads. Or else they are made of antique silk embroidered with braid likewise antique; like their models of the sixteenth century they are ornamented with a white plume.

An especially charming coiffure for a girl for some special function is made by parting the hair in the middle, letting it fall in soft undulations over the ears and catching it up in the back in a cluster of loose puff curls with half a dozen small curls left in the nape of the neck. The hair ornament is formed of a band of silver braid which fastens at the left side with a bow of ribbon.

Another attractive hair arrangement for a girl is noticeably different from this in that the hair is parted on the side instead of in the middle and in the absence of the Psyche effect at the back. A band of real lace with a metal thread is worn as an ornament, says the Chicago Record-Herald.

A coiffure which is equally becoming to a girl or a more mature woman is arranged in loose water waves, both ears being hidden. There is a slight part at the right side and a band of silver or gold mesh, finished on the left side by a rose of the same, makes a charming finish for this style of coiffure.

THE New York girl is wearing some wonderfully smart things this spring; things that are distinctive and unusual, writes a Chicago Record Herald correspondent. The few details of a strictly tailored suit make it doubly hard for the designer to bring out something to invite general admiration. Many of the classy little street frocks are cut on tubelike lines, while others show a decided inclination to meet the natural curves of the figure; especially is this true of the backs of coats. Instead of the perfectly measured straight line, there is a noticeable tendency to curve in at the waist line. This also is a prominent point in many of the new spring coverts.

Stripes predominate in walking dresses, and black and white markings are most in evidence. The brown and cream stripe effects are preferred by young girls. There are also some very attractive gray stripe weaves showing both hair lines and herring-bone patterns in the same cloth. But the black and white mixtures are a host in themselves. They are as numerous among the cottons and silks as in the wool materials. The close hair lines are exceedingly chic; some are marked so closely that they give the impression of being light gray. Many such materials are made up with wide braids or stitched satin bands.

The popular ratine that sprung up last autumn has again appeared in a lighter weight and in all the fascinating tones that its initial weave introduced. But ratine is not a material that would be advised for hard wear, for it roughs up, and its extreme lightness of weight renders it anything but sturdy. A good many of the handsomest suits made of ratine have been trimmed with a new satin-face braid that seems to emphasize the beauty of the fabric. When the cloth is dull of finish and the braid glossy, then the effect to be desired is direct contrast, and this undoubtedly is exactly what the designer intended.

Waists intended for wear with the tailor-made are elegant in their simplicity. They are made of the finest gauzes and so deftly embroidered that they resemble more a fine work of art than merely a blouse to be crushed and hidden by the coat of a plain little street suit.

In many of the new cotton waists the effect is left quite plain, though odd embellishments of one kind or another are quite plentiful. In fact, the trimming counters have a larger assortment of novelties this season than in many years back, and if it becomes necessary to resort to the shops for ornamentation of this character there is a goodly supply from which to choose. Bands of beading, tinsel and coarse embroidery are plentiful, and any of the wide patterns make up well with blouse fabrics of all kinds. A good deal of the embroidery employed on the new blouses is of the heavy eyel-padded sort. And the smartest sleeves continue to be of the kimono shape, with a band of embroidery running down the top of the arm from the neck to the elbow.

HOME HELPS

Add a piece of wax the size of a bean and a teaspoonful of powdered borax to your starch while it is boiling if it is desired to brighten the polish.

Honey sandwiches were much relished at a tea the other day, the honey being blended with butter before it was spread on slices of Boston brown bread.

Don't make the mistake of using cream cheese just so for sandwiches. Add to it a minced red pepper or onion juice or nuts or lemon juice or some seasoning which will add to its deliciousness.

If potatoes are overboiled, the best thing to do is to drain, leave them in the pan, stand it over the fire without the lid and stir briskly for a minute or two. Then add a little butter and serve as mashed potatoes.

Whipped cream, stirred lightly through a tinted ice cream, like green pistachio cream or a cream colored pink with fruit juice, while it is freezing, will streak it with white, thus producing a pretty color effect.—Ottawa Citizen.

SLEEVELESS COAT

The sleeveless jacket is one of the latest manifestations of fashionable spring attire, says a New York fashion writer. These jaunty little affairs are in all colors and go with cashmere, voile and soft wool frocks. A girl of the same material accompanies the sleeveless coat, and at its best the girl is very wide to give the shortened waist effect. The several gowns now being displayed at an uptown shop are the best examples of the sleeveless coat sort, and each gown has a separate jacket of supple satin or panne velvet in contrasting color. The sleeves appearing below the coat are tight fitting and end just below the elbow. More often than not there is a fancy cuff of one kind or another made on similar lines with the girdle. But in all its phases the short coat is always jaunty, and will be a welcome change from the extreme lengths of the past three years.

SECOND SERVING

Instead of serving roast beef on its second appearance cold, prepare it as follows: Lay the slices of cold beef in a dressing made of a saltspoonful of white pepper, twice as much salt, two table-spoonfuls of vinegar and three table-spoonfuls of olive oil. Mix well and pour over the beef. Leave for an hour, then drain each slice, dip into a thick fritter batter and fry in deep fat to a golden brown. Serve very hot.—Exchange.

FRILLED FICHUS

Elbow frills and frilled fichus are becoming more and more the vogue and bring back forcibly the colonial belles with their quaintly draped gowns, finished at the bosom with snowy white kerchiefs, says the Washington Herald. Point d'esprit lace with a narrow embroidered edge makes a lovely fichu and while ruffles are taboo on the frock itself, two or even three narrow ruffles attached to the edge of a draped fichu frame the shoulders charmingly.

WASHING CHINA

Washing soda should not be used on china, as it will take off the glaze. Try clear hot water, but not hot enough to crack the china.—Philadelphia North American.

POPULAR STUFFS

The sheer cotton fabrics, with or without a touch of silk in the weave, are among the popular materials of moderate price, according to the Chicago Record-Herald. Some of the most attractive blouses brought out this season are of these inexpensive materials, that are cleverly put together by skillful dressmakers. Among the favored effects are marquisettes, voiles and chiffons, with pronounced crepe weaves that are attracting the most attention in exhibitions of original styles. There is also a decided tendency to employ the transparencies as trimmings rather than as entire garments. In such instances the gauzes veil the fronts of bodies over metallic or other striking ornamentations, and frequently the entire yoke and undersleeves are of the highly colored decoration, artistically subdued with the gauze veiling. But unless extreme judgment is exercised in such efforts the result is more discouraging to the critical eye.

SHADOW VEILS

Black and white are a favored combination for the shadow veils. Sometimes a sheer black thread is woven through the body of the design with a still sheerer white mesh; again there are tiny black dots of chenille or velvet; or two weights of thread are used, the heavier forming a bold motif to look like an all-over lace, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. Other veiling closely resembles a transparent mosaic, so close and irregular is the finely meshed thread. There are open meshes, round, square, hexagonal and combinations. These are generally in black and are lighter and more lacey than last season, though surprisingly durable.

SURAH TWILL SILK

Surah twill silk in solid color is a material which is claiming much favorable attention for spring, says a fashion exchange. This is being used by the best model houses in Paris for making tailored suits and three-piece costumes. This new surah has a high luster surface and is used in exactly the same manner as satins have been so freely employed recently.

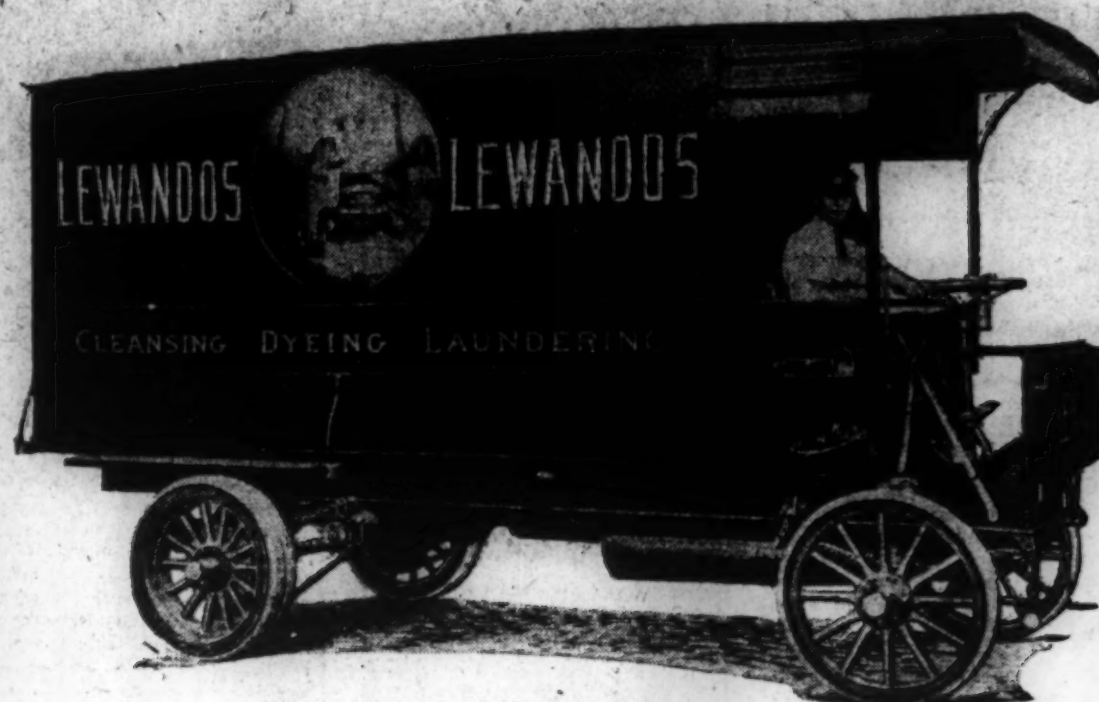

Surah is especially well adapted for summer use in America. It is durable, sufficiently dressy for a handsome suit, is light weight, and, therefore, comfortable for summer use in many parts of the United States. More than this, domestic silk mills are equipped to produce surah silks.

WOMEN FOR GAS

The women town councillors are reported to have won in the recent fight in Reykjavik, the capital of Iceland. For several days there was a deadlock in the town council over the lighting of the city. All the men members were in favor of electricity, while the women stood solidly for gas, because they wished to use it for cooking purposes also. After considerable hesitation the mayor cast his vote with the women.—New York Sun.

OUTING HAT

A stylish outing hat, has the rim turned up deeply all around in basin shape and no trimming but a band of black velvet or satin edge on each side with narrow knife plaiting in white satin, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. The left side is a shirred square buckle of white, through which one end of the velvet extends.

FISH BALLS.

TAKE one part fish and two parts raw potato, about three pints in all. Pare and cut the potatoes in halves, pick the fish, freeing it from bones, and put in a kettle with the potatoes, the fish on top; cover with water and boil 30 minutes, drain and mash potatoes and fish together, season with salt and pepper and a lump of butter size of an egg, then add two well-beaten eggs and mix all thoroughly together. Have a kettle half full of hot fat, shape the mixture with a spoon and drop into the hot fat and fry to a light brown; serve hot.

SALMON WITH CAPER SAUCE. Take two slices of salmon, a quarter pound butter, half teaspoonful of chopped parsley, one shallot, salt, pepper and grated nutmeg to taste. Lay the salmon in a baking dish, place pieces of butter over it, and add the other ingredients, rubbing a little of the seasoning into the fish; bake it frequently; when done take it out and drain for a minute or two; lay it on a dish, pour caper sauce over it and serve. Salmon dressed in a similar way, and with tomato sauce, is very delicious.

FISH CROQUETTES. Take dressed fish of any kind, separate from the bones, mince with a little seasoning, an egg beaten with a teaspoonful of flour and one of milk; roll into balls, brush the outside with egg and dredge well with bread and cracker crumbs and fry brown. Make a gravy for it by using bones, heads, tails, an onion, an anchovy, a little flour and a pint of water.—Philadelphia Times.

HARRISON CAKE. Harrison cake calls for four cupfuls of flour, three cupfuls of molasses and half this amount of sugar, one cupful and a half of butter, two cupfuls of milk, four eggs, a teaspoonful of soda and two pounds of raisins. Cream the butter, add the sugar and molasses and then the milk and eggs, beaten together. Stir this mixture into the flour and soda, which should be sifted together several times. Add the fruit after pricking it with a little fork. Bake the cake in a slow oven for four hours.—New York Tribune.

CHOCOLATE WAFERS. Grate four ounces of chocolate and mix it with two tablespoonfuls of flour and one-quarter teaspoonful each of extract of cinnamon, cloves and baking powder. Add one cup of powdered sugar, the yolks of six eggs, and beat until very light. Then add the grated yellow rind and the juice of half a lemon, and beat five minutes longer. Now add the dry mixture and with a spoon lightly cut in to be beaten to a stiff froth. Pour the mixture into buttered shallow pans, having it about half an inch thick, and bake in a moderate oven for half an hour. Ice with vanilla icing, flavored with vanilla, and when this hardens cut into squares.

TO KEEP FOOD HOT

Instead of putting food into the oven to keep hot for late comers, try covering it closely with a tin and setting it over a saucepan of hot water. This plan will keep the food hot and at the same time prevent it from drying.—Every Woman's Magazine.

MRS. DURAND'S NEW DAIRY IN CHICAGO TO BE WORLD MODEL

Plans Contemplate Eleven Buildings of Concrete With Glass Roofs and Enameled Interior.

AN ANIMAL'S PALACE

CHICAGO—Mrs. Scott Durand, known the country over for the modern ideas which she has instilled into dairy farming, Friday made public the plans for her new dairy to be built on the site of the one destroyed by fire last November. The plans show that, although simple, the buildings will be built to include the most up-to-date features which are a necessity for obtaining clean and wholesome milk.

The architectural plans drawn by S. S. Beman, cover the erection of eleven buildings, constructed throughout of reinforced concrete. The interiors will be built to resemble white enamel, the entire color scheme being white. The buildings are to be constructed in Flemish style and will present a pleasing appearance when completed.

That there may be continuous daylight in all of the buildings as long as is possible, 20 per cent of the roof space will be composed of glass, which will allow a new variety of reddish-tinted tile slabs. All of the buildings will have cold running water, which, to insure its cleanliness, will be sent through pipes of washed air.

The main building will contain the dairy office, the shipping, bottling and washing rooms. Between the office and the other rooms glass walls will be built to enable visitors to view the process of handling milk. The men working in these rooms will be dressed in white linen and use every precaution to prevent dirt from entering the milk. Adjacent to the main building will be that containing the cattle. On each side of the room will be stalls for 30 cows and separate sections will be built for the other cattle.

Another building will be given over exclusively to the manufacture of artificial ice and others will be devoted to the housing of horses, hogs and chickens. The dairy will generate its own power in a separate building just opposite the office. Individual buildings for the farming implements and the housing of the farm men will be constructed.

All of the buildings will be constructed facing a large court, in the center of which will be placed a huge spraying fountain surrounded by flower beds. The middle building of the square will be surmounted by a tower, containing a clock, which will chime the hours. As each hour strikes a procession of the various domesticated farm animals in miniature figures will march around the clock edge. The latter feature is taken from the Dutch dairies.

Mrs. Durand has in contemplation, upon the completion of the dairy buildings, the construction of a residence upon the lake front, constructed in the style of an Italian villa. Upon the roof of the home will be cultivated a formal garden.

Simplicity will be the keynote of the farm, which Mrs. Durand hopes to make one that all dairy farmers will emulate. She intends to conduct a school for young men and women, during the summer to teach the advanced ideas of dairy farming.

IRISH WOOLEN MILLS PROSPER

DUBLIN—The prosperous condition of the Irish woolen industries is shown by the balance sheet of the Galway Woollen Mills, at their half-yearly meeting. The Athlone Woollen Mills are building large additions to their premises to keep pace with the demand for their goods. In County Cork, the Dripsey Mills would be glad to get more families of woollen workers for their employment. The same company has also bought the Sallybrook Mills at Glamire which at one time were noted for their blankets.

RAILWAY IS OPEN TO WHITE NILE

KHARTOUM—The railway line running south from Khartoum is now open as far as Kosti on the White Nile, and trains run three times a week to Kosti via Wad Medani and Sennar. There are also three return trains weekly from Kosti to Khartoum.

This extension might not seem of any particular importance, if it were not for the fact that it marks a further stage in the connection by railway of Cairo with the Cape.

JUSTICE LURTON OF SUPREME COURT AIDS CHURCH CONGRESS

(Copyright by Harris & Ewing, Washington, D. C.)

JUSTICE H. H. LURTON.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE selected editorial comments to-day deal with the passing of laws regulating the cold storage business.

SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) UNION.

While the Sixty-first Congress adjourned without acting on committee recommendations in the matter of cold storage legislation, encouraging progress is being made in this regard in several state legislatures. At Albany, where the public regulation of cold storage has been stubbornly opposed for years, the assembly passed the Brennan bill by a vote of 101 to 35. This measure applies to all articles of food except fruits and vegetables, and prohibits the keeping of food in cold storage longer than six months, unless special permission is obtained. The transfer of food from one cold storage warehouse to another for the purpose of evading the law is prohibited, and when food has been taken out of cold storage to be sold it must not again be put in cold storage. Refrigerating interests made a hard fight to amend the bill to allow butter, cheese and eggs to be kept in cold storage nine months, but without success. It is required that all foods placed in cold storage shall be plainly branded with the date of receipt.

BUFFALO COMMERCIAL—Many cold storage men themselves believe that the state should have unlimited control over and regulation of food products placed in warehouses on the ground that it would result in greater confidence in the merits of such products if the public was certain that the state exercised a proper supervision over the warehouse and made a careful inspection of its contents. Cold storage as an instrument to regulate prices is an excellent thing, but abuses have crept into the system which have given it a bad name. The eradication of those abuses by strict regulation and inspection should restore the cold storage article to popular favor again.

FALL RIVER (Mass.) HERALD—At the last session of Congress, Representative Moore of Pennsylvania introduced a bill to regulate the storage of food supplies in the District of Columbia which appears to offer a satisfactory solution of the problem and a fair model for other communities to pattern after. This particular bill requires that all firms engaged in the food storage business shall pay a license fee of $50, that a careful record shall be kept of all such concerns, that all goods on being received for storage shall be plainly marked with the date and that no such food shall remain in storage longer than six months.

LOUISVILLE HERALD—More "interference with business"—this time the cold storage business. A committee of the United States Senate has been investigating to learn the maximum age at which certain kinds of food is fit to eat. This is interesting as a matter of information; but still more interesting as an evidence of the growing purpose of the government to put public good above private business considerations. It shows the growth of social consciousness.

LOWELL (Mass.) COURIER-CITIZEN—The New York assembly by the strong vote of 101 to 35 has passed the bill of Mr. Brennan of Brooklyn to regulate the cold storage of foods, and if the Senate and government concur that business in the state will be under closer supervision than in the past. Altogether the bill seems well designed to correct evils heretofore allowed to grow up in the cold storage business. It might well be the model of similar legislation in all the states or even for a federal statute, which many believe will finally be necessary.

MR. UNDERWOOD VISITS NEW YORK

WASHINGTON—Representative Underwood of Alabama, who will be chairman of the ways and means committee of the Sixty-second Congress, was in New York Thursday and it was intimated at the capital that his trip might be with the purpose of conferring on tariff revision plans.

WASHINGTON—Justice H. H. Lurton of the United States supreme court is to be the general chairman of arrangements of the twenty-ninth church congress, which is to be held in this city on April 25 to 28.

Bishop Alfred Harding is honorary president ex-officio of the congress. The Rev. J. Townsend Russell will be general secretary of the local committee on arrangements, of which Justice Lurton is general chairman.

The permanent general chairman of the congress is the Rev. Henry Babcock, D. D., of New York city, and the general secretary is the Rev. G. A. Carstensen, Ph. D., of Riverdale, N. Y. The regular meetings of the congress will be held in Continental hall.

MUSIC NOTES

CLEMENT RECITAL.

A hundred lessons for American tenors and baritones in the performance of Edmond Clement at Jordan hall Thursday afternoon—chiefly lessons in what the singing masters call deportment. Any appearance of Mr. Clement, whether on opera stage or concert platform, is a study in the comedy of manners. Necessarily so, because Frenchmen, when their motives and ideals are thoroughly analyzed, are found to be primarily interested in the immediate aspects of the world. However classic the part a French artist enacts, he is always living in the present moment, he never forgets the social relation between himself and the people whom his art addresses. Art, indeed, is something that performer and audience enjoy together, rather than goods delivered and received for as per contract.

If singing were all an affair of tone production, voice placement and expression of the mood of words, Edmond Clement would never have studied it; if instrument playing were an affair of blowing melodies legato on a reed pipe, Georges Longy would never have been an oboist. The French seem arbitrary, sometimes, in their art preferences. Why do they choose to pursue the art of tenor singing when they have no voices for it? Why do they like to sing songs in which neither poets nor composers have spent extraordinary powers of intellect?

A people hard to explain. But let us have their musical artists, their best ones, all our impresarios and concert managers can lure to our shores. They bring us a view of art and manners that we could not arrive at, left to ourselves, in centuries.

THEODORE N. VAIL DENIES A DESIRE TO BE GOVERNOR

Rumors that Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, whose home is at Lyndonville, Vt., might be the next Governor of Vermont, were denied today in an interview published by the Boston News Bureau.

"I am not seeking nor would I accept any such preferment," said Mr. Vail. "These rumors were started in Vermont to get at my position, but I have expressed the same sentiment there that I do here. Of course I am grateful for the implied compliment."

Mr. Vail has more than a thousand million dollars' worth of telephone, telegraph and cable lines in his hands, spending thereon for their expansion more than $50,000,000 a year, but is also a farmer in Vermont. He has 5000 acres at Lyndonville.

Navy Notes.

WASHINGTON—According to the navy department, there appears to have been some misapprehension by the public in regard to the battleship Virginia during the passage from the English channel to Guantanamo last January not maintaining a speed which would apparently have enabled the fleet to elude discovery by the cruisers and scouts in the scouting problem.

While it is true that the Virginia's coal consumption at that speed was such as to render it inadvisable for her to sustain it, the margin between her performance and that of the other ships of her class was small. The difference was due to the fact that the Virginia was testing a certain special coal, which proved to be not as good as the standard coal supplied to vessels.

SNESTAD BRINGS IN 24,782 BAGS OF SUGAR FROM CUBA

The vessel will probably dock Monday at the Standard Sugar Refining pier, South Boston.

She is the fourth sugar laden boat to arrive during the past seven days, the Bygland bringing 25,620 bags from Banes, Cuba; the Francis 11,000 bags from Manzanillo, Cuba, and the Rhein-graf 20,000 bags from Havana.

The duty on the four boats will total $250,000, it is said.

MATTAPAN'S ENLARGED POSTOFFICE

OPEN ENLARGED POSTAL BRANCH AT MATTAPAN

Nowhere in the Boston postal district is said, than that which has just been opened in Mattapan. Forced by the growth of the business to obtain larger quarters additional space in Bartlett's block, Mattapan square, was leased. Patrons used to climb a flight of stairs, but now they enter from the new office occupied about 2200 square feet. This it is expected will meet the demands of that growing section for several years.

The lobby is finished in tile work with a screen behind which are the various departments.

One of the chief features of this post-office is the unusual amount of natural light and sunshine which it receives.

The Mattapan station is in charge of Felix J. Donahue, superintendent, who has five clerks and nine carriers under him.

RHODE ISLAND ACTIVE IN BEHALF OF PERRY MEMORIAL ON LAKES

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Rhode Island, the native state of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, is planning to take a prominent part in the raising of a memorial to the sailor at Put-In-Bay, Lake Erie, near Sandusky, O., July 1, 1913.

It is expected that the state commission, appointed a year ago, will shortly present a resolution to the Legislature asking for an appropriation of $25,000. Congress has made an appropriation of $250,000 contingent upon the raising of $500,000 among the eight states which are to participate in the movement.

This state feels added interest because every one of the ships which made up the Perry fleet in its final victory was commanded by a Rhode Island man. The proposed monument is to cost $500,000 and the rest of the appropriation is to be used for the ceremonies attendant upon its dedication.

The proposed monument is to be 375 feet in height as planned by the architect, John Eisenman. There will be a powerful light mounted in the top of the tower to warn mariners, and it is further planned to have a wireless depot established therein.

Rhode Island's commission consists of Senator John P. Sanborn of Newport, Senator Louis W. Arnold of Westerly, Senator Sumner Mowry of South Kingstown, Representative William C. Bliss of East Providence and Representative Harry Cutler of Providence.

SEES OPPORTUNITY FOR U. S. BUSINESS MEN IN ARGENTINA

Opportunities for the American business man in Argentina are many, according to Charles L. Chandler, vice and deputy consul-general of the United States at Buenos Aires, who spoke at the Exchange Club on Thursday afternoon before a gathering of Boston exporters, at the invitation of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

"You could hardly mention an article made in this country for which there is not a market in the republic," he said. "When we consider that although only 5 per cent of the total area of Argentina is under cultivation, it is producing more linen than any other country in the world, and stands second in the total export of corn, and fourth in that of wheat, it will be readily seen what a future there is that country."

"England has nearly 800,000,000 invested there, France has about $105,000,000 and Germany has $60,000,000."

AUTO-STEAM FIRE ENGINE SATISFIES IN NEW YORK TEST

NEW YORK—Propelled by gasoline but pumping by steam the city's new automobile fire engine had a tryout yesterday as to its speed and capacity for pumping. The new machine made 45 miles an hour and developed a pumping capacity of 750 gallons a minute.

When the test was over Commissioner Waldo expressed the opinion that in a few years all of the fire apparatus in the thickly settled parts of the city will be run by their own power.

Fire chiefs from several cities and towns closely observed the working of the machine.

The speed test was entirely satisfactory to Commissioner Waldo. The makers had only guaranteed 30 miles an hour. The new engine weighs eight tons and is of 100 horsepower with four cylinders working.

It is stated that through the secret agreement the Hungarian delegation have been promised that 50 per cent of the armament of the dreadnoughts shall be made in Hungary. This arrangement, the Austrian delegation, as well as the Austrian government, refuse to accept, maintaining that such an agreement is detrimental to Austrian industry. The situation is decidedly strained, so much so that the resignation of Admiral Count Montecucoli has even been discussed.

NEW PLAN IS HEARD TO BUILD TWO-LEVEL SPRINGFIELD DEPOT

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—The city council, Mayor E. H. Lathrop, the advisory riverfront commission and a number of business men were addressed Thursday night by James L. Doherty, city solicitor, on a new plan for the solution of this city's river front and railroad problems.

The plan, which comes from William Barclay Parsons of New York, the railroad commission's consulting engineer, provides for the depression of the New Haven's tracks from Mill street along the riverfront to the eastern portal of the Boston & Albany bridge, where a two-level railroad station would be built.

The lower level of this station would accommodate the through New Haven and Boston & Maine trains, and the upper level the through Boston & Albany trains. This would give the city a riverfront park bisected by the railroad's right of way.

The new station would cost about $1,000,000, and the carrying out of the entire plan about $4,000,000.

Blueprints made by R. F. Wheeler, chief construction engineer of the New Haven, were also shown. These call for the same kind of depressed tracks, but make a loop to connect the New Haven and Boston & Albany tracks for the accommodation of through New York-Boston express trains.

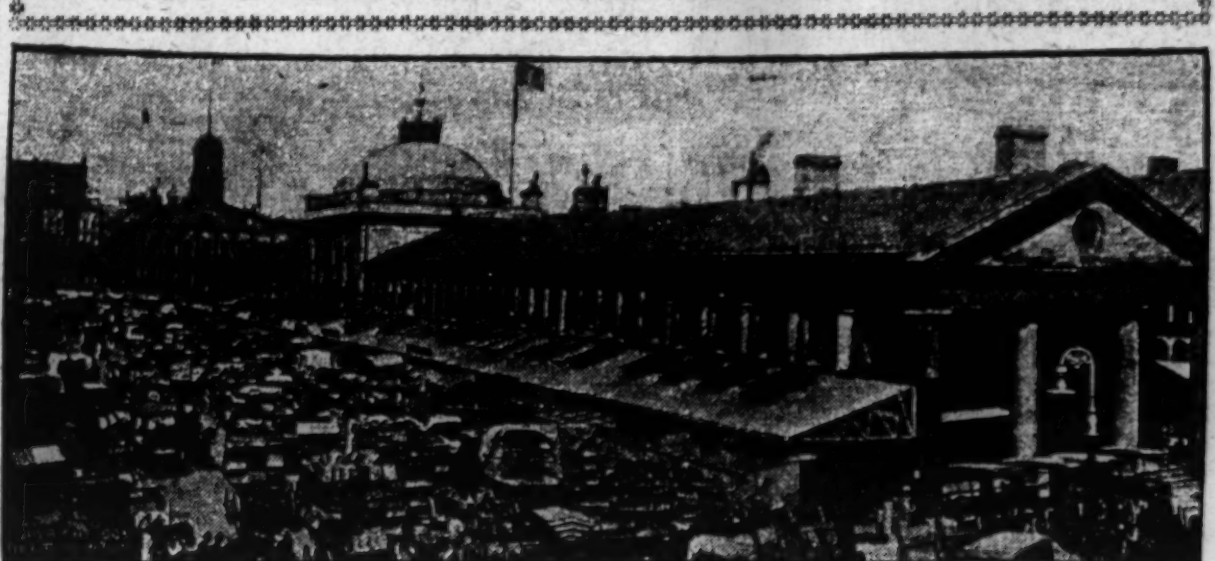

Under Mr. Wheeler's plan the express would have to enter the city and then back into the station when going in both directions. Mr. Parsons' plan provides for a loop which does away with the backing.

A new legislative act would be necessary if either plan were adopted.

STOCKS DRIFTING ALONG IN VERY NARROW GROOVE

Professional Traders Doing Little Until After Supreme Court Decisions—Public Not Interested.

LONDON IS QUIET

Dulness of the securities markets was accentuated today. There was no incentive for selling and no encouragement for buying. Prices drifted along seeking the course of least resistance which, during the early sales, was downward. Losses were fractional but during the first few minutes the leading issues reached a lower range than yesterday's low level. At the end of the first half hour prices were firmer.

Opinion was expressed that until the supreme court had handed down the decisions concerning the Sherman antitrust law a slow market could be expected. However, as the time draws near for the rendering of these opinions it is thought that there should be periodically at least, some active days on the exchanges.

The local market was weak and quiet. There were times when the trading almost came to a standstill during the first half of the session. Price changes were confined to small fractions in most cases. Toward midday some fair gains were made by a few specialties. Consolidated Gas opened off 1/4 at 142 1/2 and rose more than a point. Norfolk and Western opened up 1/4 at 106 and advanced 3/4 further before midday. American Agricultural Chemical opened unchanged at 65 and gained nearly 2 points. Great Northern preferred, Pennsylvania and a few other stocks showed some improvement. National Lead was weak. It opened off 1/4 at 52 selling 52 1/2 later.

North Butte opened off 1/4 on the local exchange at 28 1/2 and improved fractionally. There was some trading in Giroux at yesterday's prices, selling fractionally above 6.

The selling of Missouri Pacific was a feature of the afternoon trading. The stock opened unchanged at 53 1/2 and after fractional improvement sold off well under 53. Interborough preferred and common made a moderate advance. The United Railway Investment Company issues also were in demand at higher prices.

LONDON—The securities market quiet and in many cases without noteworthy feature. Forecasts of a $20,000,000 budget surplus have steadied gilt-edged investments and rubbers and oils show a rallying disposition.

Americans move narrowly at gains above New York parity. Other departments are colorless.

De Beers are 1/4 lower at 18 1/2. Rio Tinto has declined 3/4 to 67 1/2.

THE COTTON MARKET.

NEW YORK—Cotton openings: March 14.46@14.48, May 14.60@14.61, July 14.40@14.41, Aug. 13.90@13.92, Sept. 13.14@13.15, Oct. 12.74@12.75, Dec. 12.63@12.64, Jan. 12.60@12.61. Market opened steady, 2 to 6 points higher.

LIVERPOOL—Spot cotton; good business done. Prices steady. American middling uplands 7.75. Sales 10,000. Receipts 9,600. American 9,600. Futures opened steady. Tenders near 1,000.

BOSTON LOANING RATES.

Loaning rates on stocks this morning were: American Telephone, 3 per cent; Amalgamated, 3 and 2 per cent; Steel common, 3 per cent; Lake Copper, 3 per cent; North Butte, 3 per cent, and East Butte flat.

THE SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK—Local refined sugar market steady and unchanged. Spot raws steady; centrifugal 3.35c, muscovado 3.35c, and molasses 3.08c. London beets steady, March and April 10s 4 1/2d.

SOME REBATES HELD LEGAL.

INDIANAPOLIS—The appellate court held on Thursday that there is nothing legally or morally wrong in a contract to pay rebates on condition of continued trade.

NEWS BY CABLE AND CORRESPONDENCE

ASSEMBLY REJECTS
EIGHT-HOUR BILL BY A LARGE MAJORITY

South African Union Government Soon to Introduce Measure Which Will Bar Illiterate From Country.

ASIATIC QUESTION

(Special to The Monitor.)
CAPE TOWN—The amendment to the mines regulation bill proposed by Mr. Sampson, a Labor member, providing for an eight-hour day, counting from the time of leaving to that of returning to the surface, instead of merely that spent below ground, has been rejected in the Union House of Assembly by 27 votes to 2.

The Asiatic question was the subject of debate in the Union House of Assembly, the main points discussed being Asiatic immigration and trading. The minister of the interior, Mr. Smuts, said that there was but one way of dealing with the difficulty, namely, by stopping immigration, although he nevertheless admitted the way in which Indians stood together for what they considered to be their rights. The policy of the government, he said, was to stop immigration, who had asked that a limited number of Indians should be allowed to enter, a demand to which he had no difficulty in agreeing since the number would be so small that it would not affect the stream of the country's life. The government also proposed to insist on Asiatics remaining in the particular province in which they were domiciled. A bill would, he stated, shortly be introduced referring to the whole question of immigration.

It is said that with the passing of the bill referred to any person who is unable to write 50 words dictated by the immigration officer in a language he may select will be excluded from the country.

HARVARD AND FRANCE
AGREE TO EXCHANGE OF HYDE TEACHERS

PARIS—The French government and Harvard University have reached an agreement providing for the exchange every alternate year of professors at the Sorbonne and at Harvard, thereby continuing officially the foundation of James H. Hyde, formerly of New York, who established a French lectureship at Harvard in 1898 and an American lectureship at the Sorbonne in 1904.

Mr. Hyde, who has been aware of the negotiations, was greatly pleased when informed of the completion of the arrangement which places on a permanent and official basis the work which he initiated and has carried on.

It appears that Harvard and the Sorbonne desire that the American and French exchange shall be placed on the same enduring basis as those of Harvard and Berlin and of Columbia University and Berlin University.

CALLS ITALIANS
AMERICANIZED

ROME—The premier explained the government's emigration policy at some length in the Chamber of Deputies on Thursday. He referred first to the measures which the Italian government proposed to adopt as well as to the laws enacted by the United States to restrict immigration.

These latter, the premier said, were calculated to curb only partially Italian emigration, as labor was still needed in America. He deplored the fact that so many emigrants soon lost their national traits and became Americanized.

For this reason it would be necessary to increase the Italian schools abroad, he said.

EMIGRANTS BRING SAVINGS.

(Special to The Monitor.)
CALCUTTA—About 600 Indian emigrants from the colony of Trinidad landed here recently and brought back with them savings amounting to an average of about $90 each. The largest amounts brought back by individual coolies were $4167, $1875 and $712.

"TOSSING THE PANCAKE" STILL OBSERVED AT WESTMINSTER

The beadle, winner of the pancake and the cook, in doorway of Westminster school.

(Special Correspondence of The Monitor.)
LONDON—The old custom of "tossing the pancake," on Shrove Tuesday, which seems to have been fairly general in the English schools of the sixteenth century, now only survives at Westminster, and even there this function is shorn of most of its glory in these unromantic and utilitarian days. Formerly the King and the court would attend in state to watch the entire school struggle for fragments of the precious pancake; now the combatants consist of one champion chosen from each form, the attendance being chiefly confined to mothers, sisters, cousins and aunts of the boys, and it is even whispered that the pancake is not a real pancake at all, but a fictitious one made of putty.

Just after noon the 17 boys selected to compete for the prize were drawn up in a line in the great hall of the famous school whose history is almost contemporaneous with that of the country. Here, under the iron bar which separates the upper from the lower school, with the boys of the former before them, and those of the latter perched on the forms behind them, the champions waited, while the "Head" walked up and down in the arena with his watch in his hand.

As the abbey bells pealed half-past twelve, the school cook, bearing the pan-in his hand, marched into the hall, preceded by the dean's verger, carrying his silver-topped wand of office. The headmaster gave the word of command, "Eyes front!", the cook jerked the pan, the pancake sailed over the bar, and over the heads of the champions, and flopped onto the floor and with 17 boys on the top of it. There was a terrific struggle for a few minutes, a struggle which was finally concentrated on the person of Mr. Furdon, whom it was evident was regarded as having obtained the lion's share. Mr. Furdon lay on the floor, with one hand buried tenaciously in his waistcoat, while the battle raged over him as if he had been Patroclus. Whatever he had secured he held with the grim determination with which Frederick the Great held Silesia during the Seven Years war. Nothing could tear the substance from his grasp. Suddenly the "Head" shut his watch. The historic scuffle was over. Half a dozen villainously dirty paws with atoms of what had been pancake were extended to the "Head," who decided that Mr. Furdon was the possessor of the largest portion of the now awful compound. "Habet!" preceded by the verger, and attended by the cook, he marched in triumph to the deanery, to receive the guinea from Dr. Armitage Robinson.

GERMAN COLONIES MAY PAY
WAR TAX TO FATHERLAND

(Special to The Monitor.)
BERLIN—A memorial has been placed before the Reichstag, by the imperial colonial office, on the expediency of levying taxation for war purposes upon the German territories. It was intended at one time that such a tax should bring the revenues to 80,000,000, but the Reichstag rejected the proposition. According to the memorial the colonies of France, Italy and North America have never been subjected to a tax for the purpose of quelling skirmishes with the natives, and England has recourse to such a measure extremely seldom and then with due regard to the financial position of the territory. The colonies of the German empire are, it is stated, absolutely unable to bear such taxation, particularly in regard to South West Africa.

In connection with German-Servian affairs many rumors are being circulated. A semi-official statement as to the cause of the retirement of Colonel Gorkovitch, the Servian minister of war, has just been published here. In the discussion as to the reasons for the ordering of new guns from the Rhenish firm Ehrhardt, instead of from Krupp, despite the fact that Krupp's tender was lower than that of Ehrhardt, the war minister intimated that Baron Reichenau, German ambassador at Belgrade, having a relative in the Rhenish firm, had interested himself in the affair. The ambassador protested sharply against the insult, and an apology was tendered, but the minister nevertheless received his dismissal. The incident is now considered to be at an end, but the fact of Baron Reichenau having left Belgrade for an indefinite period has caused much comment.

PAUPERISM REDUCED BY OLD AGE PENSION SYSTEM

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—Some striking facts as to the influence of the old age pensions on the number of paupers is contained in a written statement issued by the financial secretary of the treasury, in reply to a question of Mr. Byles.

The number of persons in the British Isles who received pensions on Jan. 6, 1911, having been in receipt of poor law relief immediately prior to that date, was 148,877, including indoor and outdoor paupers.

From special returns taken it appears that the saving to the rates in respect to the above persons may be put down at a total of £1,347,000, of which sum £1,150,000 was saved in England and Wales, £283,000 in Scotland, and £114,000 in Ireland. The above figures do not include paupers who began to receive old age pensions at a later date than Jan. 6, 1911, nor do they include persons now in receipt of pensions who were not in receipt of poor law relief in December, 1910, but who were previously disqualified from receiving pensions through having been in receipt of poor law relief at some period after Jan. 1, 1908. It is considered, however, that if an allowance is made for the additional saving these caused, the aggregate saving to rates may be estimated at £1,500,000.

IMPORTS INCREASE.

MELBOURNE, Victoria—According to the trade returns for the month of January, the total imports and exports amounted to £10,246,000. The imports, which were valued at £4,890,000, show an increase of £174,000 over those of January of last year, while the exports fell £1,003,000 to £5,356,000.

KING AND QUEEN WILL ATTEND CORONATION
CONCERT ON MAY 29

New Zealand May Erect Arch on Line of Procession—Imperial Light Horse Will Attend From South Africa

PRINCE NOT NAMED

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—A coronation concert, at which the King and Queen will be present, is to be given at the Albert hall on May 29, by the corporation of the Royal Albert hall, the Royal Choral Society, and the Royal Amateur Orchestral Society.

It is expected that the King and Queen will drive through the east end of London on June 29, the day on which they attend a service at St. Paul's cathedral.

It is probable that 50 of the imperial light horse will come over with the rest of the South African troops to take part in the coronation procession.

The attendance of this detachment would be very popular and highly appropriate as the King became its colonel-in-chief as far back as January, 1905, when he was Prince of Wales.

No Italian prince has yet been nominated to represent the King of Italy at the coronation, but it seems likely that the Duke of Aosta will once again be chosen.

The government of New Zealand, through the high commissioner, have offered to erect an arch on the line of route between Buckingham palace and Westminster abbey, in honor of the coronation. The works committee and the coronation committee are now considering the matter.

LAND SECRETARY
APPOINTS BOARDS

(Special to The Monitor.)
SYDNEY, N. S. W.—Three boards have been appointed by Mr. Nielsen, secretary for lands: (1) To report upon certain leases in the western division, (2) the reserves in the whole of the state, (3) crown lands in the eastern and central division.

These boards will commence work at once, and will report to the minister on the areas they recommend for settlement. In this way the minister is convinced that all needs of local settlers, and many also of intending immigrant settlers, will be met, while he hopes within three years to have 10,000,000 acres brought under residential settlement.

CUNARDS BUY THE
THOMSON LINE

LONDON—The Cunard Steamship Company purchased on Thursday the Cairn line of steamers operating between London and Canada under the name of the Thomson line of steamers.

In addition to the vessels now being operated, the Cunard people take over three new passenger liners now in course of completion on the Tyne, and they will institute a weekly service.

ST. JOHN, N. B.—The Thomson line of steamers, which has just been sold to the Cunard Steamship Company, was controlled by William Thomson & Co. of St. John and Dundee. A number of local business men are shareholders in the Cairn line.

ARABS LOSING TO THE TURKS

FRANKFORT, Germany—A despatch from Saloniki to the Frankfurter Zeitung says that the Young Turks' central committee has received a despatch from the seat of hostilities in Yemen to the effect that the Turkish troops are putting the Arabs to flight everywhere and that the machine guns have caused great havoc among the tribesmen.

The Arabs have lost 200 in the last two fights, while 40 of the Turkish troops were lost.

Shah Jahia (Yahya), the leader of the revolting Arab tribes, is said to have taken refuge on British territory. The telegraph lines between Hodeida and Sana have been restored.

ENGINEERS LEAVE
CANAL PLEASSED

COLON—American engineers who have been here inspecting the canal, sailed Thursday for the United States. A resolution which they adopted Wednesday in commendation of the canal and its administration will be forwarded to President Taft.

FRENCH SUBMARINE COLLISION.

LAROCHELLE, France—The submarine Loutre, while rising to the surface on Thursday in the roadstead at La Pallice, collided with the fishing boat Antioche. The Loutre sustained a bad breach in her starboard bow and took in water rapidly. The guardship Active sent two whaleboats to take off the commander and crew of the submarine, which drifted on rocks and may prove a total loss.

KAISER WILHELM ASSISTS IN DESIGNING BANK NOTE

New German one hundred mark note, the battleship being taken direct from the Kaiser's own design.

(Special to The Monitor.)
BERLIN—Some considerable interest is attached to the new issue of the 100 mark notes which have just been brought out and of which the design is entirely new. All questions with regard to such matters as fresh designs, whether for bank notes, public buildings or other purposes, are submitted to his majesty the Emperor for approval before being finally accepted.

On the occasion of the inspection of the proposed design for the 100 mark note, his majesty was not entirely satisfied with the two female figures representing commerce and industry in the background. He would prefer, he said, to have a sketch of some battleships embodied in the design, and his majesty forthwith illustrated his remarks by a sketch. This is the story of the selection of the design represented in the above photograph.

OLD AUTOGRAPH LETTERS WILL BE SOLD AT AUCTION

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—An interesting collection of autograph letters will be sold by Messrs. Sotheby on the 22d of this month. Among them are several from the Earl of Beaconsfield to his mother and sister; three verses sent from Samoa by R. L. Stevenson to S. R. Crockett, the novelist, and an interesting epistle marked confidential, written by Edward VII., when Prince of Wales, to his sister, the princess royal, afterward Empress of Germany. The letter is dated Saturday, Aug. 17, 1851, and runs as follows:

My dear Vicky—How did you like the fete yesterday? I liked it very much indeed. I hope you saw Mrs. Cowley. Give me an account of what butterflies you have caught today. I remain, Your affectionate brother, ALBERT.

There is also Byron's revised proof of "Some Observations Upon an Article in Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine, 1826," containing numerous corrections in the poet's handwriting, and a long passage referring to Keats and the article on "Endymion" in the Quarterly Review.

These remarks are written along the top of pages 56 to 59, and are dated Nov. 12, 1821. "My indignation of Mr. Keats' depreciation of Pope," he says, "has hardly permitted me to do justice to his own genius, which malgre all the fantastic fopperies of his style was undoubtedly of great promise. His fragment of 'Hyperion' seems actually inspired by the Titans."

From Charlotte Bronte there is a letter dated Aug. 4, 1839, to Miss Ellen Nussey, giving an amusing description of the novelist's first proposal of marriage. The hero was a young Irish clergyman, a Mr. Price. In the letter Miss Bronte describes him as "witty, lively, ardent, clever too, but deficient in the dignity and discretion of an Englishman." A few days after this, their first and only interview, Miss Bronte received a letter in a strange hand, containing "a declaration of attachment and proposal of matrimony, expressed in the ardent language of the sapient young Irishman. 'Well,' thought I, 'I have heard of love at first sight, but this beats all.' I leave you to guess what my answer would be, convinced that you will not do me the injustice of guessing wrong."

NEW TYPE OF PUMP
FOR FIRE ENGINES
PROVES SUCCESSFUL

(Special to The Monitor.)
MANCHESTER, Eng.—No fewer than seven Dennis turbine engines have been ordered by the London fire brigade this year, and the city of Manchester has now followed suit by ordering one of a similar make. The engine in question has just been put through a series of trials which it is understood were most successful. It is considered that this new type of pump has great advantages over the old design. With the new type there is an absence of valves, leathers, and other parts which render the action of the pump as simple as possible.

One of the chief advantages claimed for this new engine is that practically any water can be used in extinguishing a fire, for neither dirty, muddy, or salt water interferes with the action of the centrifugal pump.

The whole action is regulated from the driver's seat and, by means of a small lever and the pressing of a pedal, a double cylinder air pump is set in motion which in a very few seconds has exhausted the air from the pump and suction pipe.

Six tests were applied and the registered pressures were as follows: Two 3/4-in. jets, 145 lbs.; two 1-in. jets, 135 lbs.; twin branch 1 1/2-in., 155 lbs.; twin branch 1 3/4-in., 140 lbs.; twin branch 1 1/2-in., 130 lbs.; one 1 3/4-in., 165 lbs. to 170 lbs. No fewer than six jets can be thrown from one engine, and it is understood that the pressure of 115 lbs. is easily attained with 4 1/2-in. nozzles. The engine itself can travel at the rate of 45 miles an hour.

BELGIUM THANKS
CITY OF LONDON

LONDON—A letter has been forwarded to the lord mayor by the Belgian minister in London stating that he has been instructed by the Belgian government to convey without delay their most sincere thanks for the great kindness and hospitality so cordially extended to the recent Belgian visitors, who have carried away with them the most grateful remembrances of their splendid reception by the corporations of the city of London. A similar communication has also been received from M. Armand Herbert, the Belgian minister of industry and labor.

RUSSIAN AVIATOR
MAKES SHORT TRIPS
AT CAIRO SUBURB

(Special to The Monitor.)
CAIRO—Heliopolis, the new desert suburb of Cairo, is attracting the lovers of sport just now by horse and camel racing and aviation displays. It had been intended to hold an aviation meeting there this month but the arrangements fell through. To lessen the disappointment, therefore, a Russian nobleman brought over an aviator from his own country, M. Outotchkin, with his Farman biplane. This gentleman has made exhibition flights at the aviation course at Heliopolis on three days, making several short journeys each day, often with a passenger, the first one so taken being M. Remy, formerly Belgian consul here.

So far, the aviator has confined his flights to short trips at a height of from 50 to 100 feet and at moderate speeds. He shows mastery of his machine, rising and alighting easily and making his turns with perfect steadiness in very gusty winds.

A year ago no aviator ventured aloft at the Heliopolis meeting in such winds as prevailed during M. Outotchkin's flights. Longer journeys are promised, such as to the Pyramids and back (15 miles each way) and to Alexandria (120 miles).

CHINA IS LIKELY TO SURRENDER TO RUSSIAN DEMANDS

PEKING—The Chinese government declares its intention of agreeing to both points at issue with Russia and is now drafting a reply to the recently received ultimatum, along this line.

The foreign board states that it is prepared to accept the establishment of Russian consulates in the places specified by Russia, and also promises to take measures regarding Chinese monopolies in Mongolia, which will permit Russian subjects freedom in trade in Chinese goods as well as in the goods of other countries.

Russia contends that the treaty of 1881 did not provide for the institution of custom tariffs concurrently with the establishment of consulates by the Russian government; but M. Korostovetz, the Russian minister in Peking, evidently is willing to consider a separate discussion regarding the imposition of tariffs in Mongolia after China has acquiesced in the Russian demand.

It is expected that the Chinese government will endeavor to obtain permission to impose tariffs for the purpose of protecting its prestige at home.

BIRDS OF WASHINGTON

WITH the first crocus the song sparrows will leave their winter retreats in the thickets of Rock Creek park to come into the city to sing an accompaniment to the redbird's whistle, says the Washington Herald.

Within 10 days there will be a chorus where today there is only an occasional solo. The slate-colored snowbirds, known curiously enough both to savants and to the country folk as juncos, will come from their ravine hiding places into the open and occasionally will leave the ground which is their storehouse of food, to take to the upper tree branches, there to sun themselves and sing. With the juncos will be the tufted titmouse known all through the southern and western country as the "Peter bird," the Carolina chickadee, the nuthatches, who cannot sing, but who can make an occasional noise which sounds like an attempt at applause, and the Carolina wren, the greatest singer of them all.

The mocking bird is a resident of the District of Columbia all through the year. It is companionable and shows little fear of man, suffering him to approach within a few feet of its perch. The mocker refuses to sing except in the season of courtship and nesting. The meadow larks, the bluebirds, robins, the grackles, the red-winged blackbirds and a dozen other species are musical or noisy, according to their habit, long before the district mocking bird consents to sing. When he does sing, however, he sings, and listening to him I sometimes wondered why meadow lark or robin did not cease its song. The meadow lark's melody is appealing and the robin's "cheer up" is grateful, but one wants none of either when the mocking bird is heard.

The catbird is sometimes called the "northern mocker." It is an impetuous bird, a good deal of a busybody and a scold, but its song is worth its weight in gold, even if on occasion it spoils the effect with something like a snarl. I have heard the catbird's song, and have followed it to its source, fully expecting to find a mocking bird, and I have a fairly strong belief that other persons with much keener appreciation of music and a much finer sense of tune differences have likewise been deceived.

A little later in the season Washington will have a pair of catbirds for every bush, and the city is full of bushes. The capital is a catbird paradise. A dozen pairs at least keep house in the lilacs and in the cutleaf beeches of the White House grounds every season.

IN NANTUCKET TOWN

OLD MILL, NANTUCKET, MASS.

Built in 1746, it is now one of the show places of the town.

OF the many windmills that once stood on the island of Nantucket only one remains on what is known as Mill hill. This was built in 1746 from oak that grew on the island. Its first owner was Eliakim Swain and it was used for grinding corn as late as 1892.

In 1897 it was sold at auction and purchased by Miss C. L. W. French of Boston who presented it to the Nantucket Historical Society.

The story is told of daring boys who used to get on the mill vane to have rides while the mill was grinding. A small fee is charged now to visit the mill and it has become one of the show places of the ancient town.

FOR many years the great state of Texas, which retained her own lands and did not turn them in to the United States government at all, did her best to sell land at two, three or five cents an acre; and she gave away vast tracts to persons who made any kind of an effort at improving her roads and waterways. These lands are now selling at $10 to $25 an acre, but even at these prices the great state of Texas is the main ally of the United States in the task of supplying homes to the importunate, says the Saturday Evening Post.

Texas has always been more American than America itself, and her very name calls up, better than any other, the idea of a wide, wild, free and unfenced country. In no way can the present pinch for land be so clearly understood as in the statement that even Texas has begun to realize that land is land. Her millions of acres, now so valuable an adjunct in the remaining West, once lay over all the out-of-doors, uncared for and unmeasured and unmeted.

Texas was always deluged ground. For a very long time the government at Washington did not know the limits of the United States upon the west and southwest. Texas might have been called a part of the empire of Spain by virtue of the Spanish conquest in 1521. It might have been called part of La Salle's province of Louisiana, by reason of his occupation in 1682. It might have been called again the property of Spain when the Spaniards from Mexico wiped out the remnant of the French inhabitants. But then the Spaniards again withdrew, and the land reverted to its original owners—the Lipans and Comanches. Then the French began to spread westward from the foot of the great river, and once more the Spanish came up from Mexico to beat them back. In 1763 the territory of Louisiana was transferred from France to Spain. In 1801 it was ceded again to France and in 1803 purchased by the United States. But the line of the Spanish possessions on the southwest was not settled. In trying to discover where that line lay, in 1819,

Aubusson Tapestries

OF some rare tapestries recently on sale in New York the Evening Post says:

Among the tapestries is the Aubusson furniture of a salon of the eighteenth century, including a panel more than 20 feet long and over seven feet high; two smaller panels, a sofa, and six arm chairs. They came from a house at Limoges, and there appears to be no doubt as to their authenticity, as they are described in the standard French work on old Aubusson tapestries. They are mostly made of silk, are in perfect preservation, and their coloring is almost too brilliant, the fact probably being that the salon they furnished was only opened for weddings and fete days, and that for the rest of the time they were carefully kept from the sun's rays by closed shutters. The white backgrounds of the panels are formed of squares ornamented with fleurs de lis. On the largest panel are represented by figures in medallions three of the seasons, the frame being of garlands of flowers, mixed with musical instruments, arrows, and quivers. In the smaller panels the medallions represent a peasant woman and her child and a girl with a cupid. The sofa and chairs match the panels. A handsome Beauvais panel shows three horsemen galloping on a road in a forest, and has a rich border of flowers, leaves, etc. There is also in the collection a set of five Aubusson panels representing mythological subjects, into one of which a portrait of Louis XIV. has been introduced.

A Labor of Love

The great Gaelic dictionary, compiled, set, stereotyped, illustrated and published by one determined man, with the help of a little home press, is nearly completed. The three volumes contain full references for over 80,000 Gaelic words. Edward Dwelly has been absorbed in the work for 30 years, and has been at the printing part of it for the last 12 years. His is an almost incredible story of labor—for he has been forced to earn money as a printer at night in order to carry on the dictionary work by day. He has even had to sell the Gaelic library that he worked from. His enthusiasm has brought him triumphantly through endless discouragements.—New York Tribune.

Studious Royalty

Ex-King Manuel has been diligently studying English. He has nothing but praise for the manner in which he has been received in England, and particularly for the way in which his desire for complete privacy has been respected. It is highly probable that he will go to Oxford in due course, but no arrangements have been made for this. Indeed he will have made considerable advances in his studies before he is able to matriculate. This much he frankly recognizes and he has made arrangements for pursuing his studies.

Two tutors are to be provided for him and he expects to be able to give up most of his mornings to his books.—New York Sun.

THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS

SINCE the earliest records of ancient history the pursuit of happiness has engaged the attention of the human race. In fact we may gather from the allegory of the Garden of Eden that a mistaken sense of happiness misled primitive man at the very outset and materialized his outlook on life in general.

Christian Science makes clear the fact that material history has no foundation in absolute Truth. It sheds a new light on the pathway of life and shows that man is not material but spiritual. Having dematerialized the needle of our mental compass we find that it now points towards the pole of spiritual attraction. In this direction we are informed is the goal of true happiness, and if we press on towards it we shall find life everlasting.

Mortals have mistakenly believed that happiness depends upon the things that a man possesses. Christian Science shows us, however, that true happiness is a state of mind in which harmony reigns.

When Jesus said "the kingdom of heaven is within you," he evidently designed to correct the popular belief in a local paradise and to teach that heaven was really a condition of thought. Solomon, after pointing out the folly of laboring for material riches, said, as a man "thinketh in his heart, so is he," further emphasizing the fact that right thinking is the straight and only way that leads to true happiness.

In the latter part of the last century Herbert Spencer received the applause of the civilized world by defining "life"

The Windy Day

Oh, the windy day is a laughing day!
For the wind is a funny fellow;
He rollicks and shouts when skies are gray.

And leaves are turning yellow.
The pines, a moment ago so still,
Fling out their arms and laugh with a will.

Nodding their heads, as who should say,
"The old wind has an amusing way."

Oh, the windy day is a singing day!
For the wind is a minstrel, strolling
Thro' field and wood, with cheery lay,
Insistent, sweet, cajoling:

The strings of his harp are pine and oak,
As he chants his tale to the woodland folk—
Ah, revellers of old are they
When the minstrel wind begins to play!

Oh, the windy day is the vagrant's day!
For the wind is a comrade rover,
Whistling down the great highway
To every hill-road lover;

And whether he whistles or laughs or sings,
Through every vagrant heart there rings
The impelling, world-old call to stray
With the comrade wind for ever and aye.—Harpers.

By Rote or by Heart?

There are two ways of learning things. You can learn by rote or you can learn by heart. When you learn by rote you get a superficial knowledge without much idea of the sense of it. You are told a thing over and over again and the mind mechanically acquires only the obvious features with scarcely more than a muscular effort on the part of your ears. Or you read the thing over line by line and may finally fix the words in your mind without realization of the meaning. These processes are entirely superficial and engage principally the sense of hearing or sight without fixing the attention or stirring the mental faculties.

When you learn a thing by heart every faculty is bent to the task. You learn because you want to, because you are interested and because your heart is stirred. You are not satisfied until you know not only the thing you are learning but the "why" of it, and you do not stop until you have mastered the subject.

To know a thing right, whether it is poetry or business, you must know it by heart—you must put your heart into it with all the strength you have. If "faint heart ne'er won fair lady" it is just as true that faint heart ne'er won fair business.—The Hatman.

Honors for a Commoner

Interest has been aroused in Germany by the conferring by the Kaiser of the honor of lifelong membership of the Prussian upper chamber on one Plate, of Hanover, a plumber. It is the first time that such an honor, which is traditionally bestowed only on noblemen as a reward for eminent service to the state, has been awarded to an artisan. Herr Plate will take his place in the most exclusive of legislative chambers alongside princes, dukes, field marshals, grand admirals, great land owners, bankers and other personages who are there by right of heredity or by the grace of the King. Herr Plate is one of the leading non-socialist labor leaders in Germany. He was for years chairman of the Hanover Plumbers Trade Union. He is now chairman of the Hanover Chamber of Commerce and also of the German National Association of Artisans Chambers. Herr Plate has lived in many European countries while working as a plumber, and speaks several languages.—Portland Labor Press.

Uncle Sam vs. True Art

The saddening news comes from Washington that Uncle Sam has just declined to pay for the pressing of the pantaloons of Daniel H. Burnham, the Chicago architect who is chairman of the fine art commission created by Congress to lend artistic tone to government buildings and statuary. Mr. Burnham, it appears, went to Washington to attend a meeting of the commission and had his "pants pressed" en route and handed in a bill for it. The auditor allowed the item, but the comptroller of the treasury has now thrown it out with the comment: "The pressing of clothes has never to my knowledge been held to be a personal expense occasioned solely by travel." What if it is? How can Uncle Sam expect government art to be improved by a man whose trousers are bagged at the knees?—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Swinging it between instead of over its trucks, an inventor has built a car for underground railroads that requires but seven feet six inches of clearance above the top of the rails.—Indianapolis Star.

All truth is akin. Whether in the usual sense we employ the term, or in intelligent methods and industry in business, in a better stewardship, in absence of graft or partiality, or in intelligent economy, truth is what the race has been seeking in all its history; and so truth is, in view of the world, or this country, which appears to be the epitome of the world, seems moving in the direction of entrusting more power, and hence more opportunity, for doing good, and reserving to itself at the same time the restraints and control or rebuke or dismissal as expressed in direct legislation; and the presence of these safety appliances contributes to make better officials or representatives as the practice of doing better makes still better as virtue grows by what it feeds on.—News Scimitar.

Plans for Scotch "Home-Coming"

The London Times says that arrangements have been completed in Glasgow for an organized welcome on the occasion of the home-coming in midsummer of Scotsmen resident in Canada and the United States. Scottish corporations will join in the welcome. A plan to widen the scope of the scheme and to include Scotsmen in Australia and South Africa has been accepted, and invitations will be sent to the colonies without delay.

Team Play

Be loyal to your employer. It costs you nothing. You pledge your support every time you take a dollar of his money. Help steer the ship that is carrying you. Guard the tent that is sheltering you. Boost the man that is working for you just as much as you are working for him. Think with him. Act with him. Let your heart beat with his. It means team play and success.—A. F. S.

A Heroic Rescue

Sir Edward Morris, prime minister of Newfoundland, tells in the February Wide World magazine a remarkable story of heroism on the part of a Newfoundland fisherman. The name of this man was George Harvey, and he resided on a low, rocky island, a few miles east of Cape Ray.

In those days the emigrant ships to Canada were crowded with passengers. In the autumn of 1832 the brig Despatch, bound to Quebec with 163 persons, struck a rock about three miles from Harvey's home. He heard the signals of distress and immediately launched his boat, with his boy of 12, his girl of 17 and his dog and tried to get out to the wreck. On the deck of the ship were crowded the crew and passengers, in imminent peril. A heavy sea rose between his boat and the wrecked ship, but across that waste of water the gallant fisherman and his brave children urged their frail skiff. To get close to the stranded ship was impossible, and the task of reaching those on board seemed well-nigh hopeless, but Harvey's dog, deep diver, bold swimmer, with marvelous intelligence, seemed to understand what was required of him and at a signal from his master sprang out of the boat and swam toward the ship. The sea overwhelmed him and he drove him back, but he persevered and finally came near enough. The sailors threw him a rope, which he gripped with his sharp teeth and at last he got back to his master and was drawn into the boat. Communication was now established between the ship and Harvey's skiff, and with the most laborious efforts every person was saved. The dog's owner was presented a gold medal from King William IV.

French Cabinet at Work

WHEN a new French ministry becomes effective the question is not infrequent as to how long the cabinet may remain intact. Political wiseacres of France may still be hazarding their guesses, but their predictions no longer cause disquietude. The republic accepts the changes as the inevitable results of a party division with more conflicting interests in play than perhaps any other nation has had to conciliate for governmental purposes. The task of M. Monis is no less serious than the task which M. Briand had before him. Whether his colleagues will work in complete harmony with the premier time will tell. As a matter of fact, the ministerial issue in France centers around the position of the minister of foreign affairs. There may be disturbances at home requiring much tact and no less firmness from other members of the cabinet group. But the relation of France to other powers is the crucial factor. M. Delcasse, as the minister of marine, will undoubtedly find himself fully occupied with national and international questions. But M. Cruppi, after all, is most in the limelight.

The new minister of foreign affairs will not only have to reckon with a cabinet of a most unusual composition, but in whatever he may wish to advance he will probably have to take account of what the ex-premier, M. Combes, would do in a similar instance. The Parisian press has not yet finished discussing the visit paid by the premier and the members of the cabinet, excepting M. Delcasse, to M. Combes. Whether this unusual incident means the abandonment of the policy of appeasement, no one ventures to say. The fact remains, however, that while the internal affairs need very careful consideration, France is especially solicitous regarding her foreign relations.

The fact that the new premier ignored all party questions in his endeavors to get the strongest man possible for the foreign portfolio is evidence that France realizes the importance of maintaining friendly relations with the powers. Six eminent statesmen were approached, and each in turn refused to serve. That M. Cruppi, previously selected for the portfolio of justice, consented to exchange that office for the portfolio of foreign relations, may be an augury that the final choice was well founded.

France and Germany have recently shown a disposition to draw closer to each other. Loyal Frenchmen may well wish to see the relationship with all foreign nations continued as at present. That France, however, is not disposed to relinquish her Moroccan advantages has of late been revealed. If the new cabinet can establish a policy which can conserve the nation's home interests as well as the colonial interests in Africa, then the Monis ministry, in spite of the diverse elements that have entered into its composition, will have demonstrated efficiency. It is not so much a question of the cabinet's continuance as of the confidence the members will inspire. France, therefore, owes it to herself to give the Monis ministry a fair trial.

PORTO RICO has just given a striking proof of her eligibility to greater consideration. Her Legislature has adjourned after passing only eighty bills.

Progress in School Architecture

It is a noticeable fact that while college building receives adequate consideration in recent reviews of architectural accomplishment in the United States, scarcely any attention is yet being paid by them to the new and very pronounced departures and tendencies in the designs of public school buildings. The Latin and normal school group in Boston, it is true, obtains passing reference, but this is exceptional. Nothing is said of the great and costly high schools that are being erected in New York; nothing is said of the radical changes that public school planning is undergoing in Chicago; the ambitious and praiseworthy grouping of allied structures around the beautiful Brookline (Mass.) high school is overlooked; the plans for school building extension, development and grouping in rebuilt Chelsea, Mass., are ignored. A much more general statement along this line might properly be made, since practically every progressive community in the country is working toward the new idea in schoolhouse construction and arrangement.

Plans of the school architect today make provision for many departments, auxiliaries, facilities and conveniences, that were unknown in the public school architecture twenty years ago. The old-fashioned school building, of the larger and better class, was a box-shaped structure with many classrooms and the requisite number of corridors leading to them. It contained, perhaps, a few ante-rooms and a few closets. There was little about it that appealed to the pupils. It lacked warmth, a cultural atmosphere, attraction for youth. It was a building to be run away from with all haste when school "let out." The contrast between the old and the new order in this respect is as great and as agreeable as in any other department of modern human experience. The present-day public school building of the better class is pleasing to the eye externally and internally. It is surrounded by a sward; it may be, and it is destined more and more to be, a unit in an architectural group calculated to catch and to hold the eye that loves to dwell on things esthetic. Its interior is inviting, pictures adorn its walls, statuary very often lines its corridors; it possesses a library, an assembly hall, perhaps a museum. It has reception, consultation and cloakrooms. Its roof covers a gymnasium and a natatorium, or these are provided for in detached structures planned to harmonize with it. It may have an athletic building or, when the group is formed, a central athletic field, provided with ball courts for children of different ages and tastes. It frequently has sewing rooms, cooking rooms, manual training rooms, and in some instances these are being housed independently and serve to constitute the school group toward which the tendency is strong wherever the idea of civic improvement has taken root.

If all this was made only for showy embellishment and extravagance, there would be found in it, of course, food for deep reflection on the part of the judicious. But, to begin with, even when viewed in its most external aspects, the influence of tasteful, cheerful, attractive environment is an influence for good. Graceful architecture, polished floors, pictures, sculpture, books, sunny rooms, opportunity for wholesome pastimes—the surroundings through the school hours of a refined home—all these are educational in the highest sense. Their tendency is to give to the world young men and young women whose aspirations run to the best things that mortal existence has to offer. Even if the cost of administration were not lowered rather than increased by the system that makes for the grouping of departments in public education, the product is so improved that the cost becomes a matter of secondary consideration. Primarily, the public schools are established and maintained for the making of good citizens; anything that improves the equipment which helps toward this end must necessarily be worth much to the community, the state and the nation.

THAT there is increasing recognition of the necessity and efficiency of the merit system as applied to governmental affairs, local, state and national, is a proposition that will not now be disputed seriously. Public confidence in the operation of the system is becoming deep-rooted. With the optimistic view of the matter taken by the United States civil service commission, in its annual report just issued, there will be general agreement. Those who have watched the progress of this great reform from its inception will be ready to believe that it has raised the standard of the public service in every particular. In the present exhibit of the workings of the system it is shown that it not only increases efficiency, but that it facilitates the extension of government activities to new fields by furnishing the best practicable means of testing qualifications for work in the higher grades of public employment.

The report alluded to, of course, deals only with the national civil service. At present this calls for the work of 384,088 persons, 222,278 of whom are in the competitive, classified service. In the last year the number of competitive positions, exclusive of mechanics and laborers in the navy yards, increased by 5488. The tendency continues to be strongly in the direction of including in the system not only the lower but the higher grades of positions that have thus far escaped classification. Thus, although the attorney-general has given the opinion that mechanics and laborers are not in the classified service, the effort to bring them in by executive order will not be relaxed. On the other hand, it is almost certain that before long first, second and third class postmasters will be classified and subject to the discipline and protection of the civil service law.

The commission finds that there is more satisfactory cooperation now than heretofore on the part of administrative officers. The system that is has come to be regarded as an established fact. Less than twenty-five years ago it was popularly deemed impossible that the public service and politics could ever be divorced. But they are divorced absolutely, even though a few little details remain to be adjusted.

HEREAFTER Martin W. Littleton, congressman, of New York must bear the unique distinction of having been beaten at golf by President Taft. A smile at the loser's expense surely is pardonable in view of that fact.

The Bahamas

WHETHER the Bahama islands, Columbus' stepping stones in the discovery of America, the scene of Spain's first activities in the western hemisphere and since then a British crown colony, will ever be annexed to Canada depends wholly on the home government's willingness to relinquish them and the Dominion's attitude toward their acceptance. Had the proposition come from the British government itself instead of being advanced in the form of a resolution adopted by the Bahamas, there would appear to be more likelihood that the empire and the dependency might take the matter under serious consideration. At present no verification has been obtained at Ottawa of the report that the Bahama authorities have extended to Canada an offer of annexation, and some one has pointed out there that the proposition would necessarily be first transmitted to the British government, which would forward it to the Dominion. But whatever the feeling of the Dominion government toward the proposal, there is virtually nothing in the history of the Bahamas to indicate that Great Britain would be averse to Canadian control of these islands.

The Bahamas, like other islands in the West Indies, have furnished in the last few centuries scenes as kaleidoscopic as the great hurricanes so intimately associated with that part of the Atlantic. Up to 1783, when Spain, after extirpating the native population and deserting the islands, formally ceded the Bahamas to Great Britain, there was little progress in that portion of the world, either socially or commercially. Readjustment followed the abolition of the slave trade in 1838, which diminished the wealth of Bahama's numerous landed proprietors, and while blockade-running from Nassau during the American civil war earned heavy monetary profits for individual Bahamians, the trade of the islands as a whole fell off considerably. Then came the hurricane of 1866, bringing extensive losses in fruit trees and to the sponge industry. It was readjustment of the customs duties that finally improved Bahaman finances, but the commercial trade of the islands is largely represented in salt, and that industry has been hampered, no doubt, by the duty imposed by the United States. The Bahaman fruit crops, consisting of pineapples, oranges, shaddockes, lemons, limes and melons, often are wiped out by storms. And now that wrecks are so much fewer, a profitable salvage and export business has almost disappeared from the islands. There is no great mineral wealth in the Bahamas, and although spongers no longer are interfered with while working on the reefs near Cuba the profit from that work is not especially gratifying.

On the whole, it is not improbable that Great Britain would be glad to relinquish the islands to Canada. And it is not improbable that Canada might regard annexation of the Bahamas as more of a duty than a pleasure in case the home government favored the plan. In a way, the step would mean no radical departure from the policy of British control, and it might result in more harmonious conditions among the Bahamians, increased trade with North America and additional revenue for the Dominion government.

Advance of the Merit System

FAILURE of the Diaz government in recent years to recognize the increasing demand for the breaking up of the great ranches and plantations, in order that the common people might be provided with land holdings, seems to have caused much of the discontent that led to the present insurrection in the republic of Mexico. It is now reported from the capital that in response to a request made by a committee of agriculturists a few days ago, President Diaz promised a division of the haciendas. Does this mean that the landowners of Mexico have been convinced by recent occurrences that they can no longer ignore the popular demand for this reform? The Diaz government is virtually a landowners' government. Not only is the Mexican Congress dominated by the wealthy haciendados—the landed gentry of the republic—but the cabinet officers and practically all of the leading federal and state officers are representatives of this class.

The belief has long obtained in Mexico that President Diaz personally would favor the distribution of the great estates among the common people, but that he has been deterred from making a move in this direction by the influence of the landowners around him. It must be the case now that the latter have at length awakened to a realization of the unwisdom of their opposition, for with the common people in open revolt throughout a large part of the country, it is unreasonable to suppose that the executive, who is plainly in need of support, would deliberately invite the hostility of the class that has so often befriended him.

News from Mexico City intimates that the President will not attempt to carry out this reform until the rebellion shall have ceased. He seems to offer it to the disaffected people, indeed, as an inducement to return to their normal and peaceful occupations. However this may be, it is very certain that no matter how the present disturbance may culminate or conclude the reign of the haciendados is rapidly drawing to a close. And probably nothing would tend so surely to knit the people of Mexico together, and to give all classes a common interest in the preservation of peace and good order, than land ownership that would entitle the humblest peon in the republic to an equitable share in the soil.

PARK COMMISSIONER STOVER of New York City proposes the giving of plays and spectacles in one of the parks. A well-known theatrical manager and a well-known actress promise cooperation, and the placing of temporary seats to accommodate 20,000 spectators is talked of. The idea seems to meet with considerable favor, but immediately the question is raised, Would not such a project hurt the park that might be chosen? Here is a reversion to the good old times when public parks depressed rather than exalted the spirits of those who visited them. It recalls the "Keep-Off-the-Grass," "Don't-Pluck-the-Flowers," "Throw-No-Waste-Paper-on-the-Lawn," "Don't-Tease-the-Swan" period. It carries us back to the time when the public park was on the very point of becoming a public nuisance.

Now, if 20,000 people can be cleanly and instructively entertained daily in a public park of any great city, even at the cost of some effect in landscape gardening and of temporarily disturbing the birds, the project may very well be carried out.

Assuming that the entertainment shall be of a character calculated to improve or to give innocent amusement for the men, women and children who may be expected to flock to it from the congested districts, the idea of the New York park commissioner is one that should meet with approval not only in his own city but elsewhere. A large section of every American community is now entertained every summer by park concerts; no harm but, rather, great benefit has resulted; no harm but, rather, great benefit may result from an extension of this idea that will meet the yearnings for entertainment among a much larger but no less important part of the population.

THE resident Washingtonian, when the crowds attendant upon each recurring session of Congress have dispersed, is left to contemplate his city in its normal aspects and to measure as best he may its permanent growth. Although Washington's greatest asset consists in the fact that it is the capital of the country, yet it has ceased in recent years to be entirely dependent upon its official population or to be as strongly affected as formerly by the ebb and flow and fluctuation of political life. Washington as the capital and Washington as a city of homes may now be clearly differentiated. Of course, it never could have been the city that it is if it had not been, first of all, the capital; but assuming that the seat of national government should be changed tomorrow, the abandoned city could not be deprived of attractions that would always make it an exceptional place of residence.

Washington is growing more and more beautiful as the years go by, and more and more metropolitan and self-reliant. It has long since abandoned the idea that because it enjoyed some special advantages which enabled it to lead other large cities in some respects, it could afford to be behind them in some others. It has been of late years providing for its visitors those accommodations which they find elsewhere, and without which outward attractions lose much of their charm. Thus, Washington has now its magnificent and ably managed hotels, and is expecting soon to have more of them. Rebuilding of the Arlington alone is expected to cost in the neighborhood of $6,000,000. The city has one of the largest and finest railway stations in the world. It is going to erect in the near future some great modern business blocks. It will soon spend $2,000,000 upon the reclamation of the Anacostia flats. Between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 will be spent upon parks and boulevards in the next five years. The government itself is about to begin the erection of public buildings to cost about $8,000,000. Altogether, something like $20,000,000 will be expended soon in the further improvement and beautification of the city.

It is a very different Washington from what it was fifty years ago this month. What it will be fifty years hence is a matter that must be left to conjecture, but it promises to be one of the finest cities in the world.
